THREE CENTS

Did You Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT the Pickaway-co Teachers Reading Circle, an organization for the improvement of its members in pedagogy, literature and history, was formed here in September, 1884, with 27 signers, several of whom are living today.

The organization was completed with the following officers: Albert Leonard, New Holland, president; Miss Louise Fisser, Circleville, vice-president; Miss Belle M. Brobeck, Circleville, secretary and F. M. Andrews of Five Points, corresponding secretary.

Any teacher or friend of education could belong to the circle by subscribing to the constitution and paying the annual dues of 15 cents.

First members included B. F. Hoagland, Ella B. Noonan, Ella H. Foley, Kate Ward, Agnes Kerrigan, Anna Kerrigan, R. A. Griffith, Minnie Julian, Louise Fisser, Florella Wolfe, Annie Schneider, Lillie Twichell, Ella Thompson, Belle M. Brobeck, T. C. Taylor, G. H. Thraill, Albert Leonard, M. L. Smith, E. B. Haas, J. P. VanVickle, A. J. Kennedy, James Busie, John W. Warner, L. J. Phebus, Estella F. Hall, M. F. Andrews and R. T. Dennis.

That Carl Schurz, the unrivaled German orator and champion of honest government during the period of the 1880's, visited Circleville in August, 1884, and addressed political gatherings. He delivered his talk in both English and German.

THAT the rivalry between the Democratic and Republican parties in staging parades and demonstrations in the city 50 years ago was particularly accentuated in the Blaine-Cleveland presidential campaign of 1884. Political rallies were staged nearly every night from early fall until the election date, November 4. Here's an example of the rivalry between the two factions in which both claim the distinction for "taking the town and making the most noise."

From the Republican Herald of October, 1884:

"The Republicans took the town Tuesday evening and painted it a deep red. Early in the evening the Blainites from Walnut-twp about 40 strong, came down the Columbus-pk with banners flying and stepping high to the music of a bass drum. Gen. James Weaver, Pennsylvania Republican gubernatorial candidate was the principal speaker at the rally held later at Wittich's Hall."

Here's what The Democrat and Watchman says:

"The Democratic clubs of the city united Tuesday evening to stage the greatest political demonstration ever seen in these parts. There were over 2,000 men in the parade with 1,500 lighted torches blazing the way for a march all over the city. Members of the First Ward club were in red capes and red and white caps and were quite imposing in appearance."

Later it was recorded that a colored man was arrested and fined $14 for throwing stones into the Democratic parade.

A group of Republicans from Washington C. H. threatened to come to the city the following Saturday evening. "We're going to give the rock-ribbed Democracy of Pickaway-co a shaking up that it never had before," they said. The Herald of the time warned the city's liquor dealers to prepare in advance for their coming. But they failed to show up.

GRAND JURORS INDICT NINE IN DAY'S SESSION

Ignore 4 Cases With Walton, Alexander, Redman, Miller Facing Court

2 CHARGES SECRET

22 Witnesses Questioned in Friday's Meeting

Although only four of the persons are in custody of local authorities, a special session of the January grand jury indicted nine persons in its session Friday.

One of the indictments involving two men is secret and will not be made public until the men are arrested. True bills have been returned against three men held on charges in other counties after perpetrating crimes in this county. The jury also ignored four cases.

Those indicted are: Curtis Walton, Lancaster, on three counts of safe blowing, automobile theft, and breaking and entering in connection with the S. C. Grant Coal office robbery in which he is charged with safe blowing and breaking and entering, and theft of Gail Wilson's automobile which was later recovered in Lancaster. Leo Alexander, Lancaster, for automobile theft in connection with the Wilson job. He was also Walton's alleged accomplice although he was not charged with perpetrating the robbery.

REDMAN INDICTED Paul Redman, Deer Creek-twp, colored, for forgery. William J. Miller, Darbyville, for issuing checks with insufficient funds.

These men are all held in the county jail.

Other indictments were returned as "retainers" against: Elmer Friend, Columbus, for grand larceny after robbing the Scioto-twp and Muhlenberg-twp schools. He is held in Delaware-co for robberies there.

Edgar Popham and Jesse Bales, indicted jointly on two counts of armed robbery and automobile theft. They are charged with robbing Luther Walters, merchant policeman, and also with stealing the automobile of Meinhard Lane, South Bloomfield. Both men are now in state institutions after being arrested for Brown-co authorities after a series of armed hold-ups. They pleaded guilty to charges there.

Cases ignored were against: James Young, colored, statutory charge; Ella Heeter, statutory charge; Worley Fitzgerald, petit larceny; Harry Gephart, failure to provide.

22 QUESTIONED Twenty-two witnesses were questioned before the grand jury under the direction of Prosecutor Ray W. Davis. It is expected arraignment will be Tuesday before Judge J. W. Adkins.

Sentence Altered

Judge J. W. Adkins today had altered the sentence of W. J. Thomas, who was fined last December for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Thomas' driving rights were suspended for six months but this order was revoked by the court.

Thomas was arrested last Dec. 21 after his automobile turned over on Rt. 56 southeast of Circleville.

THIRD COOKING SCHOOL NAMED GREATEST YET

Mrs. Thurn Praises Interest of Visitors; Last Day's Prizes Given To Many.

Mrs. George O. Thurn's ears have long been accustomed to applause, not only during the past few days by the willing palms of Circleville's women, but by audiences in all parts of the country. But the ovation which greeted her yesterday when she came out to face the last session of The Herald Cooking School was something she will not soon forget.

"It means so much to have pleased your readers," said Mrs. Thurn, "and how could I help it when they have been so enthusiastic and helpful? An audience's spirit really is the most important part of any program. And the audiences of Circleville have been wonderful to me. I hope I may have the opportunity of seeing them all again, everyone."

VISITORS PRAISED

Mrs. Thurn has said repeatedly this week that she has never conducted a Cooking School which pleased her so much. "It is not only the size of the crowds which, goodness knows, are big, but the type of women who have come to the schools and their enthusiasm. It's thrilling to speak and work before such women. They love their homes, they are interested in improving their methods of housework, they listened like well behaved children, and applauded like the best audiences at a big New York show. You can imagine that we on the stage did our best to meet them halfway. I hope I meet them all again and have the opportunity of talking to them, and finding out new problems and their questions on housekeeping. Please tell them all for me what a wonderful time I've had with

CHARLES JACKSON TAKEN BY DEATH

Charles F. Jackson, aged 55, died Saturday at 3 a. m. at his home in Lover's Lane after an illness of three weeks. He was a native of this city.

Funeral services will be Monday at the home at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. M. S. Rinehart is in charge of burial in Forest cemetery.

Mr. Jackson was born here Oct. 17, 1878, a son of James W. and Lovetta Whittington Jackson. His wife, Lyle Tatman, preceded him in death. A stepson, Francis Tatman, of Columbus, a brother, John, and a sister, Jennie Jackson, this city, survive.

20-CAR TRAIN CRASH HALTED ON P. R. R. LINE

Engineer Behrens, of Lancaster, Sees Timber Across Rails

TRAIN EASTBOUND

Carried Huge Shipment Eshelman Milling Co.

Quick action of Engineer B. J. Behrens, of Lancaster, averted what might have been an accident causing great damage to products of the J. W. Eshelman and Son Milling Co., Friday evening, when a 30-foot log was found across the Pennsylvania railroad tracks a mile west of Amanda.

The train contained 20 cars nearly all of which were filled with Eshelman shipments.

Engineer Behrens stopped the train when he saw the timber

CRESTLINE, O., March 17.—William A. Scott, 48, was crushed to death today beneath a 4,800-pound coal tippie which fell as he was making an inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad yards here.

Fellow railroaders found the body. There were no witnesses to the collapse of the tippie and the cause of the accident was unknown.

lying across the rails. Aid of four men was required to remove it from the tracks.

Footprints in the mud were the only clues.

Railroad officials had begun their investigation into the apparently deliberate attempt to wreck the train which was east-bound.

YOUTH RUNS AGAINST CAR

Pence Boy Treated For Facial Injuries; School Man Exonerated of Blame.

Elmer Pence, 8, of W. Main-st, was treated for bruises and facial injuries Friday evening by Dr. D. V. Courtright after he ran from the curb against the automobile of H. E. Nichols, principal of the high school at Woodsfield, O.

The accident happened opposite the Justus Hotel, W. Main-st, where the youth lives. He was playing with a number of other boys when he darted from the curb against the automobile. Nichols took the boy to Dr. Courtright's office then appeared at the police station to report the accident.

He was exonerated of any blame in the accident.

Note Passer Feels Prison Discipline

COLUMBUS, March 17.—Edward Klenzing, 23, Ohio Penitentiary convict, who recently was caught trying to smuggle a coded message intended for Neal Bowman, to his mother, today had lost his privilege of seeing any visitors for four months.

Mrs. Effie Klenzing, the inmate's mother, revealed in Cleveland yesterday that she was a visitor at the prison here March 2, the day the message, pertaining to a plot to dynamite the penitentiary walls in a wholesale delivery attempt and allegedly written by Neal Bowman's brother, Howard, was intercepted.

Mrs. Klenzing said her son was very pale when she met him in the visitors' room at the prison and quoted him as saying to her, "They took a code message from me. I'm in a terrible jam."

Clarence E. Estell Dies in Pickaway-twp

Clarence E. "Colonel" Estell, aged 69, well known Pickaway-twp man, died at the home of his brother, Jerry Estell, Friday of heart disease.

Mr. Estell is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rilla Estell, the brother at whose home he died, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Routt, this city.

Funeral services will be Monday at 2 p. m. at White church, near Hallsville, with Rev. W. A. Moore in charge. Interment by Donald E. Whitel, Kingston, will be in the adjoining cemetery.

Guarded From Dillinger

Two husky Ohio National Guardsmen keep a watchful eye on Judge E. E. Everett on his way to court at Lima, O., following threats that John Dillinger would attempt to exact vengeance for conviction of his henchman, Harry Pierpont, sentenced to death for murder of Sheriff Sarber. Charles Makley, another Dillinger mobster, is now on trial.

C. W. A. SPENDS $88,000 SUM INSULL BEGINS HUNGER STRIKE

Administration Gradually Being Reduced; Road Beautifying To Give Work.

Pickaway-co has benefited to the extent of approximately $88,000 through the Civil Works administration, a survey of expenditures made today discloses.

The payrolls sent into the county by the government totalled $76,408.41 while money spent by the various county divisions for materials totalled $11,500. The payroll the past week was $2,487.57 plus $55.50 for truck drivers.

With the payroll slashed to 211 persons Friday a gradual reduction in the number of workers under the CWA is expected until March 31 when the CWA is scheduled to be suspended pending further orders. Department officials declared Saturday that half of the men now employed on CWA highway projects under jurisdiction of the state highway department will be absorbed by the roadside improvement program to be started after April 1.

It was learned Saturday that the airport project for this city has not been abandoned. Local CWA officials will approve the work if state officials give it their O. K. The airport would be on land owned by S. C. Elsea and decided to the city.

The state highway project on Route 18, the East Ringgold-pk, is expected to be completed in less than two weeks. There are now 68 men on this project.

Other projects and the number of men employed are Walnut creek channel, 11; Memorial Hall, 7; health and sanitation, 11; armory, 4; north end sewer, 48; Jackson school, 2; Williamsport school, 3; New Holland school, 5; Walnut-twp school, 27.

CRITES TO CAN IN HIS ASHVILLE AND N. HOLLAND PLANTS

Signing Pea, Corn Acreage; May Use Other Products For Longer Operation.

Crites Milling Co., is now contracting pea and corn acreage for its Ashville and New Holland plants.

The large acreage to be packed this year will give additional employment in Pickaway-co to 500 people during the season.

It is also contemplated to pack additional products that will keep the plants in operation through the year.

The New Holland plant has not been operated since 1931.

DANCY DISCHARGED

L. B. Dancy, E. Main-st, was discharged from University hospital, Columbus, Friday after a minor operation. He entered the hospital March 9.

Killer Again In Getaway; Deputy Dies

Believe Dillinger Might Have Entered Canada; Youngblood, Too, Is Dead.

DETROIT, March 17.—The intense and widespread manhunt for John Dillinger, escaped "wooden gun" desperado, continued on both sides of the Michigan-Canadian border today.

The hunt was spurred with the death of Under-Sheriff Charles A. Cavanaugh of Port Huron, who died last night of wounds suffered in yesterday's gun battle with Herbert Youngblood, negro pal of Dillinger. Youngblood was fatally wounded after he shot down three officers and a bystander.

TOLD BY YOUNGBLOOD

No trace of the fugitive desperado had been found today, although state police combed southeastern Michigan. Youngblood, before he died yesterday, told officers Dillinger had been in this section of Michigan for three days, and in Port Huron Thursday night.

It was feared that Dillinger may have escaped across the border into Canada.

The death of Cavanaugh was the first indirect fatality resulting from the spectacular escape of Dillinger and Youngblood from the Crown Point, Ind., jail. The outlaw cowed his guards with a wooden pistol.

The condition of Deputy Howard Lohr, who was shot in the stomach by Youngblood, remained critical. It was from a similar wound that Cavanaugh died.

SHERIFF ON DUTY

Sheriff William Van Antwerp remained on duty despite the bullet wound in his shoulder. The bystander, Eugene Field, in whose home Youngblood had taken a room, suffered only a flesh wound.

VOTE SWITCH SAVES F. D. R.

House Nearly Votes Increased Compensation; Vote on Bonus Near in Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—After postponing a decision on liberalizing government pay and veterans' benefits until next week, administration leaders today appeared to be planning an early showdown in the Senate on the cash bonus issue.

A partial poll indicated the Senate would reject immediate cash payment of adjusted service compensation certificates if a vote is forced before the pay and veterans' questions are settled. The liberal bloc feared enactment of the bonus might endanger their program for aiding government workers and disabled veterans. Administration leaders seemed ready to take advantage of the situation to defeat the bonus.

The pay and benefit issues were sent to conference after a runaway House came within a single vote of approving the senate's program on increasing veterans' compensation. Only the fact that Rep. Kennedy (D) of New York changed his vote from aye to no saved the administration from a major defeat. At it was, Kennedy's switch gave the administration a victory by 190 to 183.

Schorr charged that "fear and uncertainties of the mad financial program of the Democratic national administration keep business from improving as rapidly as it should and as rapidly as it would if not unreasonably hindered and harassed by government."

"Malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance" he charged against the state Democratic administration, which he said is "noted for the tremendous political machine it has built."

Gov. George White elected to condone the first three charges against him, which if proved are cause for removal from office but he served notice that if they are repeated he will "have something to say."

DILLINGER AIDE, TOO, WILL DIE

2 Ballots Taken by Jury Which Reaches Verdict at 10:16 a. m. Saturday

CLARK IS MONDAY

Sluggish Calls Finding to Condemned Pierpont

LIMA, March 17.—Charles Makley, smart-cracking Dillinger gangster, today was found guilty of the first degree murder of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber.

The jury, comprised of 11 men and one woman, failed to recommend mercy, making sentence of death in the electric chair mandatory.

Conviction of Makley, a native of St. Mary's, O., near here, was the second to be returned by an Allen-co jury in the death of Sheriff Sarber who was shot, fatally wounded and clubbed last October 12 when a gang of Dillinger henchmen raided the county jail here and freed their leader.

Just a week ago, Harry Pierpont, another Dillinger gangster, was found guilty without a recommendation of mercy of the sheriff's slaying. Pierpont now is awaiting sentence. A third member of the Dillinger gang, Russell Clark, is scheduled to go to trial on Monday for the same crime.

The verdict of the jury in Makley's trial today was reached at 10:16 o'clock after an hour's deliberation this morning. Last night the jury deliberated for two and one-half hours without reaching a decision.

Announcement of the jury's verdict today was delayed until the prisoner could be brought to the court to hear his fate.

LOSES HIS SMILE

Manacled and heavily-guarded Makley, who had wise-cracked his way through most of his trial this week, lost his smirking smile when the court clerk read the verdict, handed to him by Ed Mason, Lima farmer, foreman of the jury.

In contrast with the 55-minute action of the Pierpont jury, the Makley jury took, in all three and one-half hours to come to a decision on the fate of the defendant.

While Pierpont was convicted as the "trigger man" in the slaying of Sheriff Sarber, Makley was convicted on evidence that he brutally clubbed the officer, the sheriff had been told by witnesses were present during the slaying.

The Church Invites You

THE ONLY SOLUTION

Roger Babson says, "The spirit of Christ is the only solution" to the nation's financial, industrial, political and international problems. The job of the churches is to spread this spirit of Christ by preaching and by example.

"My personal opinion is that church membership is taken altogether too lightly by us laymen." Either the church is important or it is not. Public sentiment wants the church to continue but it takes more than sentiment to make the church succeed. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Lesson for March 18
JESUS RESPONDS TO FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 13:54-58; 14:13, 14-15:21-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ask and it shall be given you, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you.—Matt. 7:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Helps a Stranger.
JUNIOR TOPIC—When People Trust Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Mother's Love and Faith.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

I. The Unbelief of Jesus' Own Countrymen (13:54-58).
Jesus shared the common fate of men, unacknowledged in his own country. Even his own brothers did not believe in him until after his resurrection (John 7:3-8; cf. Acts 1:14). Because of this unbelief only a limited work could be done there.

II. Jesus Responding to the Faith of the Multitude (Matt. 14:13, 14).
1. He retired to the desert (v. 13). The news of the cruel death of John the Baptist brought grief to the heart of Jesus and he withdrew to a place of quietness to commune with the heavenly Father. Jesus accepted John's death as typical of his own.

2. Followed by the people (v. 13). The people were so greatly interested in him that they followed him on foot out of the cities.

3. Jesus healing the sick (v. 14). Although the rulers had broken with him, he did not abandon his work. Though desperate and hopeless cases were brought to him, none was found too hard for him.

III. Jesus Responding to the Faith of a Woman of Canaan (Matt. 15:21-31).
1. The mother's awful distress (vv. 21, 22). Her daughter was grievously vexed with a devil. The daughter was the one who was afflicted, but it was the mother who carried the burden. No doubt this Gentile woman had heard of the fame of Jesus. His power to heal had come to her notice and doubtless many times she longed for him to come her way that her daughter might be healed. Now that he was in her neighborhood she came straightway to him.

2. The mother's fervent appeal for help (vv. 23-25). She humbly fell at his feet and pleaded for mercy. She besought him to cast the demon out. Her appeal may be considered as a model prayer.

a. It was sincere and earnest. From the depths of her heart she cried to the Lord for help.

b. It was brief and definite. In a few well chosen words she besought the Lord in behalf of her daughter.

c. It was personal and humble. The Lord is pleased when we beseech him in behalf of personal friends as well as ourselves. She came humbly, for according to Mark's account she fell at his feet (Mark 7:25).

d. It was believing and persistent. Though she was outside of the covenant people, she believed that the Lord would hear a cry of need. All who accept Christ are his covenant people. She persistently begged help of the Lord. She would not accept a refusal. The Lord is pleased with the soul who will not let him go until the blessing is granted (Luke 11:5-10; 18:1-8).

3. The woman's faith rewarded (vv. 26-28).
a. Jesus' apparent refusal (v. 23). He answered her not a word. This seems strange that to her distressing cry he was irresponsible. Scarcely ever did anyone have to ask the second time. Frequently he did not wait to be asked. The reason for his silence was that a real difficulty lay in the way. He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This woman was a stranger to the covenant people. Her appeal was on the wrong basis. She addressed him as the son of David, which only a child of the kingdom, an Israelite, had a right to do.

b. The woman's quick response (vv. 25-27). As soon as she perceived the difficulty she worshiped him as Lord and cried for help. While only the Israelites could approach him as the son of David, all can come to him and own him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile "dog," recognizing that salvation is of the Jews. The word for dog is a diminutive term used for the pet or household dog which had a right to the crumbs which fell from the table.

c. The glorious issue of her faith (v. 28). She received more than she asked. Her daughter was healed at once while the instructions she received were worth much to her. She goes down in history with the Savior's commendation of her faith.

During the past 18 years in the United States 18 church bodies have merged and only one denomination has divided.
Statistics show that it would take the gate receipts of a single major football game to support a foreign missionary enterprise for two years.
More than half the population of Marshall Island, a group about the size of the Hawaiian and halfway between the Philippines and Australia, are now definitely associated with Protestant churches under the auspices of the London Missionary Society.
The one hundredth anniversary of the abolition of slavery by the British Parliament was celebrated in Hull, England last July. While slavery has been banished from Christendom, it is estimated that there are still 5,000,000 slaves in the world.
Representing the 37 National councils of the world Alliance for International Friendship throughout the civilized world, the executive committee has sent to the Protestant General Synod and other synods representing the churches of Germany a formal protest against Germany's ban against ministers of non-Aryan birth.
There is a great movement toward Protestant unity according to Dr. Hugh Macgill, executive secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, which has just held its quadrennial convention in Chicago. Three general principles on which the movement is based are: 1. The new unity is to be based on functional levels instead of mergers of administrative bodies of denominations. 2. Cooperation is to be achieved in open conference rather than in secret committees. 3. Denominational autonomy is to be preserved and encouraged as a means of achieving Protestant catholicity. A meeting of representatives of the various cooperative agencies was recently held to develop cooperation between the great denominational agencies of inter-church cooperation.

The History of a Dollar Bill
An Illinois business man took a dollar bill, pinned a piece of paper to it, asking everybody who spent the money to write down what it was for and sent it back into circulation for two weeks. At the end of that time it came back with the following story:
It was spent five times for salary.
It was spent five times for tobacco.
It was spent three times for cigarettes.
It was spent twice for haberdashery.
It was spent three times for meals.
It was spent once for automobile parts.
It was spent once for groceries.
It was spent once for washing.
It was spent once for toothpaste.
God never had a single chance with that dollar!

What may be done to increase the number of children in the preaching services?

Such programs need to be made that will give the children a larger opportunity to participate in the worship service. A procession of the children, moving in stately order past the pulpit into the service or choir, creates a fine fellowship of worship in any church. Children can be easily trained to sing responses, to unite with the pastor in brief prayers, and to take other important and appropriate parts in the worship service. They always enjoy sharing in the singing. The story for children should never be a miniature sermon. Let the story tell its own truth without moralizations or added comments. The children sitting with their parents in the church service is commendable. This will help to preserve the family as a unit and to create a desirable family worship through public worship.

PORTSMOUTH, DAYTON TANGLE FOR HONORS

Scioto-Co Trojans Show Power Beating Tiffin; Roosevelt Has Easy Time With Rayen; Mark Center and Waterloo Meet For Class B Title With Latter Team Favored; Roberts, Waterloo Center, Proves Sensation of Tourney.

COLUMBUS, March 17.—Eliminating one favorite after another, Portsmouth, the surprise team of the tournament, won the right to battle Dayton Roosevelt for the Class A state high school basketball championship at the Coliseum here tonight by winning a bitterly-fought game from Tiffin Columbus, 23 to 18, in the semi-finals last night.

Dayton climbed into the finals yesterday afternoon by taking an easy 38 to 25 victory from Youngstown Rayen, the last remaining pre-tournament favorite.

Mark Center, of Defiance, and Waterloo sailed through the semi-finals to earn the right to play for the Class B title tomorrow evening.

WATERLOO ROUGH
Mark Center turned back the highly-touted Belpoint quintet, 28 to 25, while Waterloo ran roughshod over Lowellville, 43 to 32.

Harold Monk, flashy Portsmouth forward, led the Spartans' attack against Tiffin. He collected four goals for a total of eight points to take scoring honors in the game. Boren, center, and Bender, guard, each garnered four points for the Portsmouth five.

Portsmouth took the lead and held it throughout the game, although Columbus was always too close for comfort or to allow the

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THE story appearing elsewhere on this page announcing a plan of the government to obtain possible sites for propagation purposes in this county strikes a favorable chord. We would urge immediate action on the part of Game Protector Francis, Farm Agent Guy Dowdy and the Pickaway-co Farmer's and Sportsman's Protective association. The latter should immediately appoint a committee to work with the game protector and farm agent to get the project moving as soon as possible.

Portsmouth goes into the finals of the state cage tournament this evening supported by a great crowd of followers and its 72-piece state championship band. The musical unit accompanied by 800 rooters is scheduled to go to Columbus today on a special train. The crowd will probably go through Circleville on the Norfolk & Western. Community spirit is a great in Portsmouth as in any city we know. The townspeople have always supported their high school teams and the fairground coliseum is certain to ring with the cheers of these river-town sport fans this evening.

Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and other professional tennis players have been booked into Columbus the night of Tuesday, April 3. The site has not yet been settled.

A New Babe in Baseball

Another distinction seems to be in the offing for Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, noted woman athlete and Olympic star, who may be the first of the "weaker" sex to crash into big league baseball. She is shown getting a few pointers from Burt Grimes, of the St. Louis Cardinals, at the all-star baseball school, Hot Springs, Ark.

COUNTY ACRES FOR U. S. PLAN BEING SCANNED

Game Protector, Farm Agent, Sportsmen, Urged To Investigate Possible Land.

Game Protector Clarence Francis has received notification from William H. Reinhart, commissioner of the Ohio division of conservation, to canvass Pickaway-co in cooperation with Guy Dowdy, county agent, and send him a list of suitable tracts of 100 or more acres of land available for purchase by the federal government.

The plan is a part of a broad conservation plan for the better utilization of natural resources involving erosion control, water conservation, flood control, forest management, land utilization and the diversion of submarginal land from agriculture to more profitable purpose. To date 401 projects in 45 states, and covering 6,013, 074 acres of land have been submitted to the national committee.

FOR PROPOGATION

It is particularly desired that suitable nesting areas for natural propagation purposes be recommended. Such areas should contain adequate breeding grounds, food, and shelter.

The tracts recommended by the game protector and county agent for purchase by the government should include size and shape of them and how very, very much I appreciate their fine attitude and generous cooperation." Many members of the audience have special reasons for remembering The Herald Cooking School with gratitude. Not only for the good sessions of cookery and homemaking offered this week, but because the cooperating merchants have been more than usually generous.

GIFTS AWARDED

Among those who carried off the most important gifts were Mrs. Dora Parks, 435 S. Scioto-st., the Radiant heater from the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., Mrs. E. S. Merriman, the electric Casserole from the Southern Ohio Electric Co., Mrs. Leah Thompson, 137 Walnut-st., the Occasional chair from Mason Bros., Mrs. B. F. Ward, 358 E. Mill-st., the table lamp; and Mrs. Orpha Hatz, the carpet sweeper, also from the Mason Bros., Mrs. E. J. Wright, New Holland, was awarded the case of Rinso from The Pettit Tire and Battery Shop; Mrs. E. R. Austin, E. Main-st., the set of blue dishes from the G. C. Murphy Co., Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson, 143 W. Franklin-st.; Mrs. John Mader, E. Main-st., two house dresses each from the W. T. Grant Co., and the ham from Clarence Wolf went to Mrs. Mary Crum 149 1-2 W. Main-st.

The baskets awarded at the last session went to Mrs. J. P. Rankin, 344 E. Union-st.; Mrs. C. M. Beatty, Orient; Myrtle Lockard, 152 E. Main-st.; Mrs. J. W. Eshelman, 100 Northridge-rd.; Mrs. George C. Gerhard, R. F. D. 5, and Mrs. Dora Parks, 435 S. Scioto-st.

Other awards at the final sessions were flowers to Olive Williams, 301 E. Mound-st.; large sack Laureville flour to Mrs. Fannie Parks, 236 Watt-st.; and a large can of Rumford Baking Powder to Mrs. E. Goode, 123 Watt-st.

The Herald feels more than satisfied with the results of this Third Annual Cooking School. This has been an offering to the women of Circleville and vicinity, and in addition, Cookery and home making information will play a larger part than ever before in the pages of The Herald.

The women who attended the last session insisted that Mrs. Thurn and able assistant, Mrs. Nye return to Circleville to the next Cooking School and The Herald agrees with them that a better lecturer and assistant would be difficult to find.

At the same time The Herald is grateful for the enthusiasm and cooperation which local merchants have shown throughout the week. In closing the school K. J. Herrmann, manager of The Herald, thanked the women for their daily attendance and their expression of appreciation to Mrs. Thurn who so ably conducted the school.

equally as fatal as the bullet. The sole witness for the defense was Fred Makley, brother of Charles, who attempted to establish an alibi for the clubber.

Makley's jury took only two ballots during the three and one-half hours of their deliberation. The first it was learned, was taken shortly before midnight last night and, according to Jury Foreman Mason, all jurors voted that the defendant was guilty.

There was no question of his guilt. It was a question of whether we would extend mercy. Mason said, "We decided to sleep on it before we made the decision whether we should condemn Makley to die. We took one ballot this

Seek To Avert Walk-out In Detroit Area; Labor Dispute Is Cause.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Government officials ranging from President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, down were using every influence today to avert the threatened strike of 75,000 automobile workers, called for Wednesday morning at 9 a. m.

The strike recommendation was issued here by 60 union labor leaders who recommended to the auto workers in the Detroit area that they vote to strike Wednesday. If their employers refuse to agree to the collective bargaining provisions of the National Recovery act, and if they continue their refusal to bargain with representatives elected by the workers.

The workers were to meet in Detroit this morning to vote on the strike proposal, and it was predicted by the leaders they would follow the recommendations of the labor leaders affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Recovery Administrator Johnson took a hopeful attitude despite the strike threat and issued this statement:

"An automobile strike threatens the whole industry. The gentlemen before the national labor board represented only two companies. In conference between the board and the NRA it seemed wise to make an attempt to give the self governing code authority of the whole industry an opportunity to act in its proper function to try to settle the trouble—not only as to the two companies and not only as to this occasion but as to all companies and other occasions that might arise.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Novelties—sheer, shimmering, thrilling novelties, are the rule rather than the exception in RKO-Radio Pictures' musical extravaganza, "Flying Down to Rio," which comes to the Cliftona, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and the chap who said "there is nothing new under the sun" is dead wrong.

First, the story starts out with handsome Gene Raymond, darling about the country in a "flying piano" (it flies, too) seeking secluded spots to compose harmony for his band.

Then he takes his outfit, by air, to beautiful Rio de Janeiro, where he is seduced to open up a new hotel with a big musical show.

He falls in love with the owner's daughter, Dolores Del Rio, and a rivalry for her hand is begun between himself and handsome Raul Raulien, a native Brazilian.

AT THE GRAND

One of the most hilarious take-offs on the film colony, which comes from Hollywood itself, will be found in the latest Warner Bros. picture starring James Cagney, "Lady Killer," opening at the Grand Theatre on Sunday. It is based on the story by Rosalind Shaffer in which she relates the astounding rise to fame and fortune of a young ex-crook by a unique and brazen publicity method.

The story is said to be an actual revelation of the facts in the climb to success of a well-known Hollywood player, that is, insofar as the motion picture sequences only are concerned.

IN MEMORIAM

Ruth Beckwith taught commercial subjects at Franklin Junior High from September, 1923 to the beginning of this semester. She was a woman of unusual personal charm and beauty, and possessed the saving grace also of a keen sense of humor, which we all need at times.

She liked boys and girls and was interested in helping them and seeing them develop from day to day. They, in turn, loved and admired her, always found her fair and ready to listen to them.

We, her fellow workers, knew her as a brilliant woman and a fine teacher and so modest that many never knew of her unusual attainments. We loved her and we shall miss her more than we can say.

Women natives of Oshima island, about 100 miles from Tokyo, learn when children to carry water on their heads because the island is volcanic and the water must be borne for five miles or more.

TO LOSE FAT

Miss M. Kainer of Brooklyn, N. Y. writes: "Have used Kruschen for the past 4 months and have not only lost 35 pounds but feel much better in every way. Even for people who don't care to reduce, Kruschen is wonderful to keep the system healthy. I being a nurse should know for I've tried so many things but only Kruschen answered all purposes." (May 15, 1932).

TO LOSE FAT SAFELY AND HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—get Kruschen Salts at any drugstore in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Will War? Come?

This time when Louis Barthou, member of the French academy, rich in honors, took an office that could mean little addition to his burdens, he read, not in Le Temps, but in a German encyclopedia that "M. Barthou by his passage of the three year military service law was one of those chiefly responsible for bringing on the war."

"That is false," exclaimed the minister as he sat in the tapestried workroom of the Quai D'Orsay where his predecessors from Talleyrand to Briand have pondered the problem of the last and the next war. "The three year military law was not a provocation to war more than our present preparations to defend ourselves are provocation to war. It was a simple measure of self-defense."

"We had learned that the Germans were vastly increasing their effective. There was nothing left for us to do but reply by increasing ours. I have nothing to be ashamed of for my part in improving the ability of my country to defend itself when the events that afterwards transpired showed how desperately necessary the measures of defense were."

PROUD OF PART

"On the contrary, I am proud of having participated in promoting a law which perhaps in the last analysis saved France from defeat."

He ruffled his pugnacious beard and gazed clear-eyed through his rimless spectacles. M. Le President Barthou is probably the smallest in stature of the six former premiers of France in Gaston Doumergue's all-star cast, but he is certainly not the least fiery.

"But M. Le President, would it not have been better to have passed the law earlier, say in 1912?"

"Ah no, August 1913 was when the law was passed and that was the earliest it could have been passed. In a Democratic country like France, run by its parliament, the people have to be convinced of the necessity of such a measure before they will accept it. The people would not have accepted it earlier. They would have turned out any government that tried."

The minister did not say so, but the fact is that it is in precisely this respect that many persons of authority in France see the greatest parallel with the situation in 1913-14. French soldiers today serve one year. The French consider it beyond dispute that the Germans are "increasing their effectiveness." But French public opinion is as little prepared today for an extension even to eighteen months of the period of army service as French public opinion in 1912 would have been prepared for the three year bill.

READY IF WAR COMES

On the contrary, M. Barthou insisted that "do not think the eighteen months service period is yet necessary. We are prepared, we do not want war. If it comes, we are prepared."

But in another respect M. Barthou considers the similarities between 1914 and 1934 to be most menacing. "Some time last year," he said, removing his glasses and putting both elbows on the desk, "I wrote a review of the European situation for a French political weekly. In it I set forth the positive opinion that there would be no war at any rate in the year 1934. I am compelled to say I can no longer express the view I expressed in that article."

"Why? What is the reason? In one word, Austria. There is the most striking analogy between the position of Austria in 1934 and the position of Serbia in 1914. Serbia at that time was menaced by the Austro-Hungarian empire. Russia insisted that the independence of Serbia should not be violated. Out of that conflict sprang the great war. Today Austria is menaced in its independence by Germany. On the other side stand the great powers and the little entente, insisting on the maintenance of the independence of Austria. The parallel between Austria and Serbia is disturbing, one might say alarming. At any rate it makes it impossible to predict positively that there will be no war even in this year 1934."

REFERS TO VOTE

"But," he exclaimed and waved his eye-glasses to warn against premature conclusions. "Nevertheless I am encouraged by one factor to believe, to cherish the hope that there will be no war also in 1934. I refer to the latest diplomatic note sent the German government in respect to the Austrian question from the government of Great Britain, Italy and France."

"It was a short note. It had about two sentences. But in my opinion it was the most important ant diplomatic event in years. For it showed the solidarity of these three powers on a matter of vital importance for the peace of Europe.

"You remember that each of these three powers had previously made separately individual representations to the German government stating their interest in the maintenance of Austrian independence. But this time they acted together. It is true that I have observed no positive sign from Berlin that the attitude of the German government has changed toward Austria as a consequence of this joint action. But just the same I am strongly inclined to believe that this action has made any adventurous move on the part of Germany improbable."

"Furthermore, and that is my great hope for the preservation of peace, the solidarity of Great Britain, Italy and France, shown in the Austrian question has also been shown and is being confirmed every day in the disarmament question. Let us preserve that solidarity and the question of war or peace will remain academic."

HITLER FOR PEACE

Now the little minister straightened up in his chair and delivered his most significant remark: "If there is one man in the world who wants peace today, it is Hitler. What his position may be in the future, when Germany's rearmament has changed the feelings of his own people, what may be the consequences of internal developments within Germany, no man can say. But today I think we have to take the word of Hitler as true: That he does not want war."

"We who have lived through the war know too much of what it means. It is not reasonable that persons who have had that experience would wish it to be repeated."

"And the Saar, M. Le President? Would it not remove one danger spot if the Saar question were to be settled by agreement between France and Germany?"

"There," he exclaimed. "I agree about the explosive possibilities. Developments are possible there which could violate any prediction on the probability of peace being kept. But the position of France is plain. We have repeated it again and again. The Saar is not a Franco-German question. It is a question for all the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles. The great powers and the little administration of the Saar, the arrangement of the plebiscite is a matter for the league and only for the league. France has no choice but to leave the Saar question to be settled as the treaty provides."

"And the Hapsburgs, M. Le President? Would France consent to a restoration of the Hapsburgs in Austria?"

"The French position," replied the minister cautiously, "is that we are simply interested in maintaining the independence of Austria. But we have our treaties with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, their opposition to the restoration of the Hapsburgs is very strong. We have to take them into consideration."

Summed up, the views of the French minister of foreign affairs, on the basis of his observations today interpreted through the experience of forty years of European politics are:

1. War is not probable, but possible, even in 1934.
2. Hitler does not want war now but events may force the hands of all, no matter how strong their desire for peace.
3. Austria is the most dangerous spot in Europe; the Saar is a second.
4. Peace can only be rescued by the solidarity of France, England and Italy.

The French minister of foreign affairs is neither war-scared nor peace-blind. "I should like," he remarked on concluding, "to quote from an essay of Herbert Spencer when you ask me 'Will War Come?' Spencer introduced his essay with the sentence: 'Only the unforeseen happens,' since that which will happen will be unforeseen I cannot dare attempt foresee it."

Kindness

(An Editorial)

Kindness can be manifested in many different ways, according to the individual.

When we meet a friend who is downhearted and blue, let us give him a pat on the back and help him see the bright side of life; when we feel that we can't go on living in this old world let us not be grouchy and have ill feelings toward others because it is as the saying goes, "Every cloud has a silver lining."

When we fail in our work at school we should not have unkind feelings for the teachers but take our misfortune as a grown-up should.

A little more determination upon our part to succeed and a little more kindness to others will do wonders in making our lives more worth while. Many illustrations of this fact may be found by observing our own school mates.

The universal result of kindness is love and happiness.

student opinion

Do you think speakers and entertainers in our chapel programs are treated with due respect?

Walter Eitel:

No, I do not think that those who have given chapel programs have been given that best of attention or respect.

If there are some students who do not like certain types of talks or entertainments, it would seem that they would be polite and give the ones that are interested a chance to hear. A group of people should, by the time they are old enough to be in high school, be self-disciplined enough to be courteous even though they may not be interested.

The speakers never talk so long that it is impossible to keep quiet a short time, at least.

Vivian Holmes:

No. As a student of Circleville high school I think that by being more appreciative and attentive the student body of C. H. S. could improve its behavior 100 per cent.

The person who is willing to address an audience should merit at least an average amount of respect. We must remember that the entertainers are putting forth their best effort to please.

James Smith:

No, it seems that almost every assembly that is held there is a predominating feeling of wildness and freedom. This feeling in due turn tends to make the students discourteous and rude to the speakers or entertainers who are trying to do their best before an audience.

Horace Gilmore:

Yes, I do. I base my opinion on the following statement made by a man who spoke at C. H. S. "It was one of the most attentive audiences I ever spoke to."

The attention of Circleville's student body at assemblies is as good as can be expected.

SCHOLARSHIP TESTS GIVEN MARCH 24

Next Saturday, March 24, the scholarship tests for high school seniors who are in the upper third of their class will be held at the Circleville high school.

Examinations are to be given in mathematics, science, English, history, and the social sciences.

Students receiving scores in the upper five per cent of the state will have their tuition paid to any college or university in Ohio.

Ten Circleville high school seniors will take the test.

SECOND GROUP OF E. M. S. MEETS

The second group of the E. M. S. met Monday night, March 2, at Service Liston's home. The assisting hostesses were Mary Curtin, Dorothy Beaty, and Eleanor Brown.

This group meets once every three weeks.

Plans are under way for the joint meeting of the E. M. S. The food committee is Marjorie Mader and Dick Plum. The program committee consists of Luella Baxter and Mary Curtin.

FACTS ABOUT YOUR STATE

Thursday, March 1, 1934, marked the one hundred thirty-first anniversary of the admission of Ohio to the United States as the seventeenth state of the Union.

Many of Ohio's loyal sons and daughters have attained the ranks of the famous. She has had eight Presidents of the United States, three presidents of the Senate, two speakers of our national House of Representatives, three Chief Justices of the Supreme Court, two Secretaries of State, five Secretaries of the Treasury, six Secretaries of War, three Secretaries of the Interior, four Attorneys-Generals, three Postmaster Generals, and many other persons who are among America's—and the world's—foremost journalists, authors, dramatists, artists, sculptors, scientists, and military and naval men.

CLASSIC DRAMAS TO BE PRESENTED HERE MARCH 23

Shakespearean Players Present "Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth" Friday.

The C. H. S. auditorium will be a mecca for all lovers of classic drama next Friday, March 23, when the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce Company will make their appearance here. This will be their second appearance here in six years.

These Robert B. Mantell-coached players will present "The Merchant of Venice" and "Macbeth" at 2:30 p. m. and 8:00 p. m., respectively. There are nine in the troupe.

Tickets for the two performances went on sale Friday at Ebert's Soda Grill, The Temple Drug Store, and at the high school.

The day before their scheduled presentations at C. H. S. the Shakespearean players will appear in Lancaster. They have been touring Michigan towns and cities during the past week.

Surrounding communities are completing their plans to attend the plays.

JUNIOR PLAY CAST CHOSEN

The tentative cast for the Junior class play "Shirt Sleeves" was announced Monday by Mr. Bowen, instructor of dramatics.

Those gaining berths in leading roles include the following: Horace Gilmore, Eloise Hatz, Doris Lindsey, Dorothy Fohl, Joe Bell, Otis Mader, and Lydia Given.

The business staff and other assistants will be announced within the next week.

The play will be given on April 12 and 13.

BUCKEYE LEAGUE MEETS TODAY

Today Principal Gephart, Coach Herberholz, and Mr. Cress attended the semi-annual meeting of The Central Buckeye League athletic association in Columbus.

The meeting was for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Present officers are Mr. Gephart, president; and Mr. Dwight Blauser, grandview, secretary and treasurer.

Next year's basketball schedule will be made and the program of minor spring sports will be mapped out.

40 Girls, 15 Boys Included on Largest Roll During Present School Term; Juniors Lead With 20.

The honor roll for the fourth six weeks includes 40 girls and 15 boys.

The juniors head the list with 20 honor students. The sophomores follow with 14 on the list, and the freshmen come next with 11 on the honor roll. Ten are seniors.

First honor students include the following: George Ammer, William Ammer, Wahnta Barnhart, Betty Binkley, Carl Boggs, Marie Briner, Virginia Cady, Virginia Caskey, Nana Cooper, Matilda Davis, Charles Diehlman, Harold Doan, Jessie Dresbach, Mildred Francis, Lydia Given, Alice Griner, Otis Mader, Mary Ellen Maxey, Margie Merz, Thelma Piper, James Reichelderfer, Harold Rummel, Betty Sayre, Wilma Welch, and June West.

Ruth Newland, Dick Plum, Marjorie Seymour, Esther Stevenson, Oscar Troehler, Anne Vrecomb, Evelyn Wolfe, Vera Zaenglein.

Students Assist Classic Players

Several local young people will assist in the production of "The Merchant of Venice" and "Macbeth" to be given by James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce, and their company at the High School Auditorium on March 23. It is the custom of the company to invite a limited number of students from the dramatic and English classes to appear with them in certain scenes requiring group acting. These students will wear the period costumes of the time.

Miss Watson, teacher of English, and Principal E. I. Gephart have selected the following students because of their particular fitness and experience: Charlotte Moore, Mary Curtin, Mary May, William Ashbrook, Denver Greenlee and Robert Fricke.

In addition to those taking parts in the cast, several have been assigned to help as technical and business staffs. Betty Brown and Carl Boggs have been placed in charge of ticket sales and the advertising is being handled by James Packard and Robert Ward.

TRACK PRACTICE STARTS MONDAY

Again spikes will cut the grass from the cinder path and track season will begin.

According to Coach Herberholz practice will begin on Monday if the weather is suitable. Although many track men are expected to answer the Coach's call, few field event participants are expected.

Several new men are expected to help the C. H. S. track team on its way.

TEACHERS' BANQUET TO BE HELD MARCH 22

Teachers of Circleville Public schools will hold a banquet and "get-together" at the American Hotel Coffee Shoppe Thursday, March 22.

As their guests they have invited the Board of Education and the public officials more directly connected with the schools of the city.

The party will begin at 7 p. m.

All the members of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Home Economics classes visited Mrs. Thurn's cooking school on Wednesday afternoon this week.

The third in a series of devotional services during Lent will be conducted by Rev. E. S. Toensmeier, at 10:50, Monday morning.

SOCIETY

Miss Helen Crist, Editor, Phone 581

Dr. Howard Jones Speaker at Women's Social Club Meeting

The Presbyterian Women's Social club held its March meeting Friday evening in the social room of the church and at the same time entertained the Men's social club at a covered-dish dinner.

Following the dinner, the entire group sang several folk songs accompanied by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the piano.

Mrs. B. T. Hedger, president of the Women's club, charmingly introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. Howard Jones, Circleville's noted ornithologist.

In his opening remarks Dr. Jones paid a beautiful tribute to the five Presbyterian women, who gave to the world their talent, time and energy in producing the marvelous paintings and manuscripts composing the only work of its kind in the world today on the nests and eggs of our birds.

"Food for the mind, from the heart," Dr. Jones stated was their motive for devoting their time to this great work, the origin of which was instituted by his sister, Genevieve E. Jones, who painted six pictures before her death. Her companion and friend, Miss Eliza Schulz, decided to go on with the work and completed ten more illustrations after which she left this vicinity, and his mother, Mrs. Virginia Jones, decided to carry on the work. For many years Mrs. Jones painted and sketched and so tedious was the work that she lost her eyesight in her declining years.

In the coloring of plates she was assisted by Miss Kate Gephart and Miss Nellie Jacobs, who painted all the bird eggs in their exquisite shades.

Dr. Jones displayed several of the original birds' nests from which the drawings were made and told how they were sketched on paper then on a lithograph stone, and sent to Cincinnati to the printers.

He showed by comparison, the superlative work in his possession, with that of Audubon, who sent his to England to be engraved and colored by Robert Haviland. Dr. Jones showed how utterly impossible it would be for photography to show the rare beauty and likeness of the original birds, and nests, due to the fact that lights and shadows seen in photography would mar its true beauty. None of these conditions are evident in the hand paintings in the Jones collection.

All the plates are on Whatman paper, handmade, also paint and brushes being imported from England.

Many of the famous libraries of the world have copies of the original book which is the possession of Dr. Jones. The Circleville library contains one uncolored copy, a likeness of which sold recently in Ohio, bringing the largest selling price of any book, ever made in Ohio.

These five women left a masterpiece that shall bring beauty and joy to countless souls down through the ages. The Presbyterian church of which they were members, is justly proud of their noble lives and memorable achievements.

They have filled a place in the world that should make every citizen of Circleville grateful that they once lived among us and that they made so great a contribution to mankind.

Dr. Jones in closing conducted an open forum, in regard to the exhibit he had and the talk that he had given.

Dr. Jones is the only person living who knows all the facts concerning this work of art. At the close of his lecture, a social hour ensued.

Mrs. Ward Robinson was chairman of the hostess committee and Mrs. Charles Smith was chairman of the program committee.

S. S. CLASS ENJOYS PARTY AT KEEN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kern, Jackson-twp, extended the hospitality of their home to members of the Young People's class of Christ Lutheran church, of which Mr. Kern is teacher, Friday evening, when the losing team of a recent membership contest entertained the winners with a party.

Thirty-four enjoyed the delightful evening during which a short program was presented under the chairmanship of Miss Bertha Krimmel, captain of the winning team of the contest.

Mrs. Luther List gave a reading, "Learn to Smile," and two papers, "The Good of the Contest" and "The Bad of the Contest," were read by Miss Evelyn Hill and Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel, respectively.

"His Old Father Was Satisfied" was a reading by Van Meter Hulise and a newspaper by an unknown editor which contained jokes on members of the class was read by Miss Bertha Krimmel.

Games were enjoyed during the remainder of the evening and a delicious lunch in keeping with St. Patrick's Day was served by the hosts and their assistants.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE SEES CLASS PLAY

The three act comedy, "Finger Prints," was staged by members of the Junior class of Washington-twp school Friday evening in the school auditorium before a capacity audience.

The presentation, under the direction of Miss Mary Rader, was well-received, each member of the cast being in character at all times. The high school orchestra furnished music before and after the entertainment. Miss Esther Hoyt, music instructor, played a group of violin numbers and David Adams, high school student, gave a black-faced monologue between acts.

Taking part in the play were Earl Leist, Howard Marshall, Eugene Barthelmas, Grover Dresbach, Martha Hitler, Oliver Hartley, Lucille Schreck, Myrtle McDaniel, Elleen Brown and Miss Rader.

MISS HARPER COMPOSES MUSIC FOR GLEE CLUB

Miss Virginia Harper, E. Main-st., is spending the week-end at Oberlin as the guest of the Oberlin college Women's Glee club and the director, Jack Werker.

Miss Harper, who was the accompanist for the Glee club during her Junior and Senior college years, recently composed music for James Whitcomb Riley's poem "There Little Girl Don't Cry." She arranged this for women's voices and dedicated it to the Glee club. It is to be sung Saturday night as a special feature of the club's annual Home concert in Warner hall and will be used by them on the spring concert tour.

Miss Harper has also written a beautiful sacred number which will be sung by the young people's group of the United Brethren church choir at the Easter Cantata service.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ENJOYS PARTY

Nineteen members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church enjoyed the St. Patrick's Day party Friday evening, in the basement of the church.

The merry hours were spent in games and contests. John Hegele was presented a prize as winner of one of the contests. Tempting refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

The party was sponsored by the Camp ground committee of the league comprised of Mrs. Aubrey Lemley, Misses Helen and Bernice Liston, Miss Ruth Hosler and Miss Betty Brown.

MISS MARY ROTH ENTERTAINS CLUB

Miss Mary Roth, N. Scioto-st., was hostess Friday evening, when she assembled the members of her bridge club and one guest, Miss Mary May Haswell, for a pleasant evening of cards.

Two tables of bridge were in progress with top score favors going to Miss Roth and Miss Zelma Hoffman. Delectable refreshments were served after the game.

Miss Jean Fitzpatrick, Elm-ave, will entertain the club in two weeks.

CLUB ENJOYS DINNER AT PARRETT HOME

Members of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Parrett's two table bridge club enjoyed a dinner at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening at their home on E. Franklin-st.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Imler, Mr. and Mrs. George Fissell and the host and hostess.

A delightful social evening followed the dinner hour.

40 ATTEND EUCHE PARTY FRIDAY

Forty enjoyed the euchre party sponsored by the Pocahontas lodge Friday evening in the lodge room. Six score prizes were awarded and a lunch served at the close of the game.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Anna Albaugh DePue, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is visiting with her niece, Mrs. Gevee Kenny of Hillsboro, a former resident here. Mrs. DePue is well known in this city.

Miss Lola Wentworth, W. Union-st., is spending the week-end with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Beeler of Wooster.

Mrs. Edwin Tingley and son, Edwin, of Columbus, are week-end guests of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney, E. Union-st.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Traphagen, of London, are spending the week-end with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas, S. Scioto-st.

By Pat J. Elwin

THAT the Pickaway-co Teachers Reading Circle, an organization for "the improvement of its members in pedagogy, literature and history," was formed here in September, 1884, with 27 signers, several of whom are living today.

The organization was completed with the following officers: Albert Leonard, New Holland, President; Miss Louise Fismser, Circleville, vice-president; Miss Belle M. Brobeck, Circleville, secretary and F. M. Andrews of Five Points, corresponding secretary.

Any teacher or friend of education could belong to the circle by subscribing to the constitution and paying the annual dues of 15 cents.

First members included B. F. Hoagland, Ella B. Noonan, Ella H. Foley, Kate Ward, Agnes Kerrigan, Anna Kerrigan, R. A. Griffith, Minnie Julian, Louise Fismser, Florella Wolfe, Annie Schneider, Lillie Twichell, Ella Thompson, Belle M. Brobeck, T. C. Taylor, G. H. Thrallkill, Albert Leonard, M. L. Smith, E. B. Haas, J. P. VanVickle, A. J. Kennedy, James Busie, John W. Warner, L. J. Phebus, Estella F. Hall, M. F. Andrews and R. T. Dennis.

That Carl Schurz, the unrivaled German orator and champion of human government during the period of the 1850's, visited Circleville in August, 1884, and addressed political gatherings. He delivered his talk in both English and German.

THAT the rivalry between the Democratic and Republican parties in staging parades and demonstrations in the city 50 years ago was particularly accentuated in the Blaine-Cleveland presidential campaign of 1884. Political rallies were staged nearly every night from early fall until the election date, November 4. Here's an example of the rivalry between the two factions in which both claim the distinction for "taking the town and making the most noise."

From the Republican Herald of October, 1884:

The Republicans took the town Tuesday evening and painted it a deep red. Early in the evening the Blaineites from Walnut-twp about 40 strong, came down the Columbus-pk with banners flying and stepping high to the music of a bass drum. Gen. James Weaver, Pennsylvania Republican gubernatorial candidate was the principal speaker at the rally held later at Wittich's Hall.

Here's what The Democrat and Watchman says:

"The Democratic clubs of the city united Tuesday evening to stage the greatest political demonstration ever seen in these parts. There were over 2,000 men in the parade with 1,500 lighted torches blazing the way for a march all over the city. Members of the First Ward club were in red caps and red and white caps and were quite imposing in appearance."

Later it was recorded that a colored man was arrested and fined $14 for throwing stones into the Democratic parade. A group of Republicans from Washington C. H. threatened to come to the city the following Saturday evening. "We're going to give the rock-ribbed Democracy of Pickaway-co a shaking up that it never had before," they said. The Herald of the time warned the city's liquor dealers to prepare in advance for their coming. But they failed to show up.

MAKLEY FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

GRAND JURORS INDICT NINE IN DAY'S SESSION

Ignore 4 Cases With Walton, Alexander, Redman, Miller Facing Court

2 CHARGES SECRET

22 Witnesses Questioned in Friday's Meeting

Although only four of the persons are in custody of local authorities, a special session of the January grand jury indicted nine persons in its session Friday.

One of the indictments involving two men is secret and will not be made public until the men are arrested. True bills have been returned against three men held on charges in other counties after perpetrating crimes in this county. The jury also ignored four cases.

Those indicted are: Curtis Walton, Lancaster, on three counts of safe blowing, automobile theft, and breaking and entering in connection with the S. C. Grant Coal office robbery in which he is charged with safe blowing and breaking and entering, and theft of Gail Wilson's automobile which was later recovered in Lancaster.

Leo Alexander, Lancaster, for automobile theft in connection with the Wilson "job." He was also Walton's alleged accomplice although he was not charged with perpetrating the robbery.

REDMAN INDICTED

Paul Redman, Deer Creek-twp, colored, for forgery. William J. Miller, Darbyville, for issuing checks with insufficient funds.

These men are all held in the county jail.

Other indictments were returned as "relainers" against: Elmer Friend, Columbus, for grand larceny after robbing the Scioto-twp and Muhlenberg-twp schools. He is held in Delaware-co for robberies there.

Edgar Popham and Jesse Bales, indicted jointly on two counts of armed robbery and automobile theft. They are charged with robbing Luther Walters, merchant policeman, and also with stealing the automobile of Meinhard Lane, South Bloomfield. Both men are now in state institutions after being arrested for Brown-co authorities after a series of armed hold-ups. They pleaded guilty to charges there.

Cases ignored were against: James Young, colored, statutory charge; Ella Heeter, statutory charge; Worley Fitzgerald, petit larceny; Harry Gephart, failure to provide.

22 QUESTIONED

Twenty-two witnesses were questioned before the grand jury under the direction of Prosecutor Ray W. Davis. It is expected arraignment will be Tuesday before Judge J. W. Adkins.

Sentence Altered

Judge J. W. Adkins today had altered the sentence of W. J. Thomas, who was fined last December for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Thomas' driving rights were suspended for six months but this order was revoked by the court.

Thomas was arrested last Dec. 21 after his automobile turned over on Rt. 56 southeast of Circleville.

THIRD COOKING SCHOOL NAMED GREATEST YET

Mrs. Thurn Praises Interest of Visitors; Last Day's Prizes Given To Many.

Mrs. George O. Thurn's cars have long been accustomed to applause, not only during the past few days by the willing palms of Circleville's women, but by audiences in all parts of the country. But the ovation which greeted her yesterday when she came out to face the last session of The Herald Cooking School was something she will not soon forget.

"It means so much to have pleased your readers," said Mrs. Thurn, "and how could I help it when they have been so enthusiastic and helpful? An audience's spirit really is the most important part of any program. And the audiences of Circleville have been wonderful to me. I hope I may have the opportunity of seeing them all again, everyone."

VISITORS PRAISED

Mrs. Thurn has said repeatedly this week that she has never conducted a Cooking School which pleased her so much. "It is not only the size of the crowds which, goodness knows, are big, but the type of women who have come to the schools and their enthusiasm. It's thrilling to speak and work before such women. They love their homes, they are interested in improving their methods of housework, they listened like well behaved children, and applauded like the best audiences at a big New York show. You can imagine that we on the stage did our best to meet them halfway. I hope I meet them all again and have the opportunity of talking to them, and finding out new problems and their questions on housekeeping. Please tell them all for me what a wonderful time I've had with them."

CHARLES JACKSON TAKEN BY DEATH

Charles F. Jackson, aged 55, died Saturday at 3 a. m. at his home in Lover's Lane after an illness of three weeks. He was a native of this city.

Funeral services will be Monday at the home at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Mr. S. Rinehart is in charge of burial in Forest cemetery.

Mr. Jackson was born here Oct. 17, 1878, a son of James W. and Mary Elizabeth Jackson. His wife, Lyle Tattam, preceded him in death. A stepson, Francis Tattam, of Columbus, a brother, John, and a sister, Jennie Jackson, this city, survive.

20-CAR TRAIN CRASH HALTED ON P. R. R. LINE

Engineer Behrens, of Lancaster, Sees Timber Across Rails

TRAIN EASTBOUND

Carried Huge Shipment Eshelman Milling Co.

Quick action of Engineer E. J. Behrens, of Lancaster, averted what might have been an accident causing great damage to products of the J. W. Eshelman and Son Milling Co. Friday evening, when a 30-foot log was found across the Pennsylvania railroad tracks a mile west of Amanda.

The train contained 20 cars nearly all of which were filled with Eshelman shipments.

Engineer Behrens stopped the train when he saw the timber

CRESTLINE, O., March 17.—William A. Scott, 48, was crushed to death today beneath a 4,800-pound coal tippie which fell as he was making an inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad yards here.

Fellow railroaders found the body. There were no witnesses to the collapse of the tippie and the cause of the accident was unknown.

lying across the rails. Aid of four men was required to remove it from the tracks.

Footprints in the mud were the only clues.

Railroad officials had begun their investigation into the apparently deliberate attempt to wreck the train which was east-bound.

YOUTH RUNS AGAINST CAR

Pence Boy Treated For Facial Injuries; School Man Exonerated of Blame.

Elmer Pence, 8, of W. Main-st., was treated for bruises and facial injuries Friday evening by Dr. D. V. Courtwright after he ran from the curb against the automobile of H. E. Nichols principal of the high school at Woodsfield, O.

The accident happened opposite the Justus Hotel, W. Main-st., where the youth lived. He was playing with a number of other boys when he darted from the curb against the automobile. Nichols took the boy to Dr. Courtwright's office then appeared at the police station to report the accident.

He was exonerated of any blame in the accident.

Note Passer Feels Prison Discipline

COLUMBUS, March 17.—Edward Klenzing, 23, Ohio Penitentiary convict, who recently was caught trying to smuggle a coded message intended for Neal Bowman, to his mother, today had lost his privilege of seeing any visitors for four months.

Mrs. Effie Klenzing, the inmate's mother, revealed in Cleveland yesterday that she was a visitor at the prison here March 2, the day the message, pertaining to a plot to dynamite the penitentiary walls in a wholesale delivery attempt, and allegedly written by Neal Bowman's brother, Howard, was intercepted.

Mrs. Klenzing said her son was very pale when she met him in the visitors' room at the prison and quoted him as saying to her, "They took a code message from me. I'm in a terrible jam."

Clarence E. Estell Dies in Pickaway-twp

Clarence E. "Colonel" Estell, aged 69, well known Pickaway-twp man, died at the home of his brother, Jerry Estell, Friday of heart disease.

Mr. Estell is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rilla Estell, the brother at whose home he died, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Routt, this city.

Funeral services will be Monday at 2 p. m. at White church, near Hallsville, with Rev. W. A. Moore in charge. Interment by Donald E. Whitel, Kingston, will be in the adjoining cemetery.

Guarded From Dillinger

Two husky Ohio National Guardsmen keep a watchful eye on Judge E. E. Everett on his way to court at Lima, O., following threats that John Dillinger would attempt to exact vengeance for conviction of his henchman, Harry Pierpont, sentenced to death for murder of Sheriff Sarber. Charles Makley, another Dillinger mobster, is now on trial.

C. W. A. SPENDS $88,000 SUM INSULL BEGINS HUNGER STRIKE

Administration Gradually Being Reduced; Road Beautifying To Give Work.

Pickaway-co has benefited to the extent of approximately $88,000 through the Civil Works Administration, a survey of expenditures made today discloses.

The payrolls sent into the county by the government totaled $76,408.41 while money spent by the various county divisions for materials totaled $11,500. The payroll the past week was $2,487.57 plus $55.50 for truck drivers.

With the payroll slashed to 211 persons Friday a gradual reduction in the number of workers under the CWA is expected until March 31 when the CWA is scheduled to be suspended pending further orders. Department officials declared Saturday that half of the men now employed on CWA highway projects under jurisdiction of the state highway department will be absorbed by the roadside improvement program to be started after April 1.

It was learned Saturday that the airport project for this city has not been abandoned. Local CWA officials will approve the work if state officials give it their O. K. The airport would be on land owned by S. C. Elsea and deeded to the city.

The state highway project on Route 18, the East Ringgold-pk, is expected to be completed in less than two weeks. There are now 68 men on this project.

Other projects and the number of men employed are Walnut creek channel, 11; Memorial Hall, 7; health and sanitation, 11; armory, 4; north and sewer, 48; Jackson school, 2; Williamsport school, 3; New Holland school, 5; Walnut-twp school, 27.

CRITES TO CAN IN HIS ASHVILLE AND N. HOLLAND PLANTS

Signing Pea, Corn Acreage; May Use Other Products For Longer Operation.

Crites Milling Co. is now contracting pea and corn acreage for its Ashville and New Holland plants.

The large acreage to be packed this year will give additional employment in Pickaway-co to 500 people during the season.

It is also contemplated to pack additional products that will keep the plants in operation through the year.

The New Holland plant has not been operated since 1931.

DANCY DISCHARGED

L. B. Dancy, E. Maunest, was discharged from University hospital, Columbus, Friday after a minor operation. He entered the hospital March 9.

Killer Again In Getaway; Deputy Dies

Believe Dillinger Might Have Entered Canada; Youngblood, Too, Is Dead.

DETROIT, March 17.—The intense and widespread manhunt for John Dillinger, escaped "wooden gun" desperado, continued on both sides of the Michigan-Canadian border today.

The hunt was spurred by the death of Under-Sheriff Charles A. Cavanaugh of Port Huron, who died last night of wounds suffered in yesterday's gun battle with Herbert Youngblood, negro pal of Dillinger. Youngblood was fatally wounded after he shot down three officers and a bystander.

TOLD BY YOUNGBLOOD

No trace of the fugitive desperado had been found today, although state police combed southeastern Michigan. Youngblood, before he died yesterday, told officers Dillinger had been in this section of Michigan for three days, and in Port Huron Thursday night.

It was feared that Dillinger may have escaped across the border into Canada.

The death of Cavanaugh was the first indirect fatality resulting from the spectacular escape of Dillinger and Youngblood from the Crown Point, Ind., jail. The outlaw cowed his guards with a wooden pistol.

The condition of Deputy Howard Lohr, who was shot in the stomach by Youngblood, remained critical. It was from a similar wound that Cavanaugh died.

SHERIFF ON DUTY

Sheriff William Van Antwerp remained on duty despite the bullet wound in his shoulder. The bystander, Eugene Field, in whose home Youngblood had taken a room, suffered only a flesh wound.

House Nearly Votes Increased Compensation; Vote on Bonus Near in Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—After postponing a decision on liberalizing government pay and veterans' benefits until next week, administration leaders today appeared to be planning an early showdown in the Senate on the cash bonus issue.

A partial poll indicated the Senate would reject immediate cash payment of adjusted service compensation certificates if a vote is forced before the pay and veterans' questions are settled. The

NOT RECORDED

Congressman Mel G. Underwood was not recorded on the roll in the House of Representatives, Friday, on the veterans' economy issue.

Rickenbacker, Also, Champions Companies

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Immediate return of air mail routes to the companies which held them prior to Postmaster General Farley's cancellation order was urged before a Senate committee today by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, vice president of North American Aviation, Inc.

Rickenbacker, assisted as "unfair and unjustifiable" the provision in the Black-McKellar air mail bill eliminating from future bidding any company that holds a claim against the government for cancellation of its air mail contract.

Watson Studies Answer To Republican Charges

COLUMBUS, March 17.—Ranking under the double-edged Republican "precession" attack on both the national and state administrations, Ohio Democrats today prepared to fight back at their political adversaries.

Within 24 hours Dr. Carl Watson Findlay, the Democratic state chairman, was expected to issue a formal answer to some of the charges hurled thick and fast at the Republican pre-campaign rally.

At first the even-tempered Dr. Watson considered passing up without official notice the Republican accusations, but after re-reading the remarks of Ed Shorr, Republican state chairman, and "keynoter" at the G. O. P. rally, he decided they called for a reply.

Shorr charged that "fear and uncertainties of the mad financial program of the Democratic national administration keep business from improving as rapidly as it should and as rapidly as it would if not unreasonably hindered and harassed by government."

"Malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance" he charged against the state Democratic administration, which he said is "noted for the tremendous political machine it has built."

Gov. George White elected to condone the first three charges against him, which if proved are cause for removal from office but he served notice that if they are repeated he will "have something to say."

DILLINGER AIDE, TOO, WILL DIE

2 Ballots Taken by Jury Which Reaches Verdict at 10:16 a. m. Saturday

CLARK IS MONDAY

Sluggish Calls Finding Condemned Pierpont

LIMA, March 17.—Charles St. Mary's, O., near Lima, second to be returned to co jury in the death of Sheriff Sarber, who was shot and wounded and shot dead March 12 when a gang of henchmen raided the here and freed the man.

Just a week ago, at that point, another Dillinger was found guilty of the slaying. Pierpont was sentenced. A third Dillinger gang member, scheduled to go to the day for the same crime.

The verdict of the jury in the slaying of Sheriff Sarber was reached at 10:16 o'clock after an hour's deliberation. The jury was liberated for two and a half hours without reaching a decision.

Announcement of the jury's verdict in the slaying of Sheriff Sarber was reached at 10:16 o'clock after an hour's deliberation. The jury was liberated for two and a half hours without reaching a decision.

LOSES HIS SHARE

Manacled and heavily guarded, Charles St. Mary, who had won credit for a through most of his trial last week, lost his smiling countenance as the court clerk read the verdict handed to him by Ed McKellar, farmer, foreman of the jury.

In contrast with the 50-minute action of the Pierpont jury, the Makley jury took, in all, three and one-half hours to come to a decision on the fate of the defendant.

While Pierpont was convicted as the "trigger man" in the slaying of Sheriff Sarber, Makley was convicted on evidence that he brutally clubbed the officer.

The sheriff had been fatally shot.

Witnesses were present during the trial that the clubbing was committed.

The Church Invites You

THE ONLY SOLUTION

Roger Babson says, "The spirit of Christ is the only solution" to the nation's financial, industrial, political and international problems. The job of the churches is to spread this spirit of Christ by preaching and by example.

"My personal opinion is that church membership is taken altogether too lightly by us laymen." Either the church is important or it is not. Public sentiment wants the church to continue but it takes more than sentiment to make the church succeed. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

During the past 10 years in the United States 18 church bodies have merged and only one denomination has survived.

Statistics show that it would take the gate receipts of a single major football game to support a foreign missionary enterprise for two years.

Representing the 37 National councils of the world Alliance for International Friendship throughout the civilized world, the executive committee has sent to the Protestant General Synod and other synods representing the churches of Germany a formal protest against Germany's ban against ministers of non-Aryan birth.

There is a great movement toward Protestant unity according to Dr. Hugh Macmillan, executive secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, which has just held its quadrennial convention in Chicago. Three general principles on which the movement rest are: 1. The new unity is to be based on functional levels instead of mergers of administrative bodies of denominations. 2. Cooperation is to be achieved in open conference rather than in secret committees. 3. Denominational autonomy is to be preserved and encouraged as a means of achieving Protestant catholicity. A meeting of representatives of the various cooperative agencies was recently held to develop cooperation between the great denominational agencies of inter-church cooperation.

JESUS RESPONDS TO FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 13:54-58.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ask and it shall be given you, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you.—Matt. 7:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Helps a Stranger.
JUNIOR TOPIC—When People Trust Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Mother's Love and Faith.
YOUNG PEOPLE'S AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

I. The Unbelief of Jesus' Own Countrymen (13:54-58).

Jesus shared the common fate of men, unacknowledged in his own country. Even his own brothers did not believe in him until after his resurrection (John 7:3-8; cf. Acts 1:14). Because of this unbelief only a limited work could be done there.

II. Jesus Responding to the Faith of the Multitude (Matt. 14:13, 14).

1. He retired to the desert (v. 13). The news of the cruel death of John the Baptist brought grief to the heart of Jesus and he withdrew to a place of quietness to commune with the heavenly Father. Jesus accepted John's death as typical of his own.

2. Followed by the people (v. 13). The people were so greatly interested in him that they followed him on foot out of the cities.

3. Jesus healing the sick (v. 14). Although the rulers had broken with him, he did not abandon his work. Though desperate and hopeless cases were brought to him, none was found too hard for him.

III. Jesus Responding to the Faith of a Woman of Canaan (Matt. 15:21-31).

1. The mother's awful distress (vv. 21, 22). Her daughter was grievously vexed with a devil. The daughter was the one who was afflicted, but it was the mother who carried the burden. No doubt this Gentile woman had heard of the fame of Jesus. His power to heal had come to her notice and doubtless many times she longed for him to come her way that her daughter might be healed. Now that he was in her neighborhood she came straightway to him.

2. The mother's fervent appeal for help (vv. 23-25). She humbly fell at his feet and pleaded for mercy. She besought him to cast the demon out. Her appeal may be considered as a model prayer.

a. It was sincere and earnest. From the depths of her heart she cried to the Lord for help.

b. It was brief and definite. In a few well chosen words she besought the Lord in behalf of her daughter.

c. It was personal and humble. The Lord is pleased when we beseech him in behalf of personal friends as well as ourselves. She came humbly, for according to Mark's account she fell at his feet (Mark 7:25).

d. It was believing and persistent. Though she was outside of the covenant people, she believed that the Lord would hear a cry of need. All who accept Christ are his covenant people. She persistently begged help of the Lord. She would not accept a refusal. The Lord is pleased with the soul who will not let him go until the blessing is granted (Luke 11:5-10, 18:1-8).

3. The woman's faith rewarded (vv. 26-28).

a. Jesus' apparent refusal (v. 23). He answered her not a word. This seems strange that to her distressing cry he was unresponsive. Scarcely ever did anyone have to ask the second time. Frequently he did not wait to be asked. The reason for his silence was that a real difficulty lay in the way. He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This woman was a stranger to the covenant people. Her appeal was on the wrong basis. She addressed him as the son of David, which only a child of the kingdom, an Israelite, had a right to do.

b. The woman's quick response (vv. 27-27). As soon as she perceived the difficulty she worshiped him as Lord and cried for help. While only the Israelites could approach him as the son of David, all can come to him and own him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile "dog," recognizing that salvation is of the Jews. The word for dog is a diminutive term used for the pet household dog which had a right to the crumbs which fell from the table.

c. The glorious issue of her faith (v. 28). She received more than she asked. Her daughter was healed at once while the instructions she received were worth much to her. She goes down in history with the Savior's commendation of her faith.

What may be done to increase the number of children in the preaching services?

Such programs need to be made that will give the children a larger opportunity to participate in the worship service. A procession of the children, moving in stately order past the pulpit into the service or choir, creates a fine fellowship of worship in any church.

Children can be easily trained to sing responses, to unite with the pastor in brief prayers, and to take other important and appropriate parts in the worship service. They always enjoy sharing in the singing. The story for children should never be a miniature sermon. Let the story tell its own truth without moralizations or added comments. The children sitting with their parents in the church service is commendable. This will help to preserve the family as a unit and to create a desirable family worship through public worship.

PORTSMOUTH, DAYTON TANGLE FOR HONORS

Scioto-Co Trojans Show Power Beating Tiffin; Roosevelt Has Easy Time With Rayen; Mark Center and Waterloo Meet For Class B Title With Latter Team Favored; Roberts, Waterloo Center, Proves Sensation of Tourney.

COLUMBUS, March 17.—Eliminating one favorite after another, Portsmouth, the surprise team of the tournament, won the right to battle Dayton Roosevelt for the Class A state high school basketball championship at the Coliseum here tonight by winning a bitterly-fought game from Tiffin Columbian, 23 to 18, in the semi-finals last night.

Dayton climbed into the finals yesterday afternoon by taking an easy 38 to 25 victory from Youngstown Rayen, the last remaining pre-tournament favorite.

Mark Center, of Defiance, and Waterloo sailed through the semi-finals to earn the right to play for the Class B title tomorrow evening.

WATERLOO ROUGH
Mark Center turned back the highly-touted Bellpoint quintet, 28 to 25, while Waterloo ran roughshod over Lowellville, 43 to 32. Harold Monk, flashy Portsmouth forward, led the Spartans' attack against Tiffin. He collected four goals for a total of eight points to take scoring honors in the game. Boren, center, and Bender, guard, each garnered four points for the Portsmouth five.

Portsmouth took the lead and held it throughout the game, although Columbian was always too close for comfort or to allow the southerners a breaking spell. The score at the half was 10 to 5. Maynard Briley, Dayton's skyscraper center, was the main spark plus in Roosevelt's attack, getting five goals and seven freethrows for a total of 17 points. Frank Cantwell was Rayen's high man with eight points.

LEAD AT HALF
The first half of this game was a nip-and-tuck affair, but Dayton began showing its superiority in the second half and soon pulled out into a safe lead. The score at half time was 19 to 10, in favor of the victors.

The Mark Center-Bellpoint clash was the most hard fought of the tournament, with the outcome a toss-up until the last few minutes of the game. Crayle, Defiance center, aided his team in a big way by getting 10 points to take the game's scoring honors.

Waterloo, the classy little Class B five, set a record for high scores while defeating Chanderlerville Thursday and Lowellville last night to earn a position in the finals. The quintet rolled up a total of 101 points in the two contests. The Chanderlerville score was 58 to 29, while the score last night was 43 to 32.

O. Roberts, Waterloo center, garnered scoring honors in both games. He made 23 points Thursday and 25 last evening.

Waterloo and Mark Center will meet tonight for the Class B trophy at 7:30, while the Portsmouth-Dayton Class A championship tussle is scheduled to start at 9:30.

F. D. R. FIGHTS MOTOR STRIKE

Seek To Avert Walk-out In Detroit Area; Labor Dispute Is Cause.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Government officials ranging from President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson down were using every influence today to avert the threatened strike of 75,000 automobile workers, called for Wednesday morning at 9 a. m.

The strike recommendation was issued here by 60 union labor leaders who recommended to the auto workers in the Detroit area that they vote to strike Wednesday if their employers refuse to agree to the collective bargaining provisions of the National Recovery act, and if they continue their refusal to bargain with representatives elected by the workers.

The workers were to meet in Detroit this morning to vote on the strike proposal, and it was predicted by the leaders they would follow the recommendations of the labor leaders affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Recovery Administrator Johnson took a hopeful attitude despite the strike threat and issued this statement:

"An automobile strike threatens the whole industry. The gentlemen before the national labor board represented only two companies. In conference between the board and the NRA it seemed wise to make an attempt to give the self governing code authority of the whole industry an opportunity to act in its proper function to try to settle the trouble—not only as to the two companies and not only as to this occasion but as to all companies and other occasions that might arise.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Novelities—sheer, shimmering, thrilling novelities, are the rule rather than the exception in RKO Radio Pictures' musical extravaganza, "Flying Down to Rio," which comes to the Cliftona, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and the chap who said "there is nothing new under the sun" is dead wrong.

First, the story starts out with hands about the country in a "flying plane" (it flies, too) seeking secluded spots to compose harmony for his band.

Then he takes his outfit, by air, to beautiful Rio de Janeiro, where he is scheduled to open up a new hotel with a big musical show.

He falls in love with the owner's daughter, Dolores Del Rio, and a rivalry for her hand is begun between himself and handsome Raul Raulien, a native Brazilian.

AT THE GRAND

One of the most hilarious take-offs on the film colony, which comes from Hollywood itself, will be found in the latest Warner Bros. picture starring James Cagney, "Lady Killer," opening at the Grand Theatre on Sunday. It is based on the story by Rosalind Shaffer in which she relates the astounding rise to fame and fortune of a young ex-crook by a unique and brazen publicity method.

The story is said to be an actual revelation of the facts in the climb to success of a well-known Hollywood player, that is, insofar as the motion picture sequences only are concerned.

SECOND GUESSER

THE story appearing elsewhere on this page announcing a plan of the government to obtain possible sites for propagation purposes in this county strikes a favorable chord. We would urge immediate action on the part of Game Protector Francis, Farm Agent Guy Dowdy and the Pickaway-co Farmer and Sportsman's Protective association. The latter should immediately appoint a committee to work with the game protector and farm agent to get the project moving as soon as possible.

Portsmouth goes into the finals of the state cage tournament this evening supported by a great crowd of followers and its 72-piece state championship band. The musical unit accompanied by 800 tourists today on a special train. The crowd will probably go through Circleville on the Norfolk & Western. Community spirit is a great in Portsmouth as in any city we know. The townspeople have always supported their high school teams and the fairground coliseum is certain to ring with the cheers of these river-town sport fans this evening.

Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and other professional tennis players have been booked into Columbus the night of Tuesday, April 3. The site has not yet been settled.

Circleville high school track men are planning to get into action next week. County sprinters, hurdlers and weight men have been working out whenever possible in anticipation of the county and district meets. New Holland promises to have another good team. E. I. Gephart and P. S. Herberholz were attending the meeting of the Central Buckeye league in Columbus today. Election of officers is due. Gephart is serving his third year as president and wants relieved. Dwight Blauser, of Grandview, secretary, also wants someone else to take over this job's duties. He, too, is holding his post for the third year. Schedules for minor sports are to be drawn at the session.

COUNTY ACRES FOR U. S. PLAN BEING SCANNED

Game Protector, Farm Agent, Sportsmen, Urged To Investigate Possible Land.

Game Protector Clarence Francis has received notification from William H. Reinhart, commissioner of the Ohio division of conservation, to canvass Pickaway-co in cooperation with Guy Dowdy, county agent, and send him a list of suitable tracts of 100 or more acres of land available for purchase by the federal government.

The plan is a part of a broad conservation plan for the better utilization of natural resources involving erosion control, water conservation, flood control, forest management, land utilization and the diversion of submarginal land from agriculture to more profitable purpose. To date 401 projects in 45 states, and covering 6,013,074 acres of land have been submitted to the national committee.

It is particularly desired that suitable nesting areas for natural propagation purposes be recommended. Such areas should contain adequate breeding grounds, food, and shelter.

The tracts recommended by the game protector and county agent for purchase by the government should include size and shape of Grant Co., and the ham from Clarence Wolf went to Mrs. Mary Crum 149 1-2 W. Main-st.

The baskets awarded at the last session went to Mrs. J. P. Rankin, 344 E. Union-st.; Mrs. C. M. Beatty, Orient; Myrtle Lockard, 152 E. Main-st.; Mrs. J. W. Eshelman, 100 Northridge-rd.; Mrs. George C. Gerhard, R. F. D. 5, and Mrs. Dora Parks, 435 S. Scioto-st.

Other awards at the final sessions were flowers to Olive Williams, 301 E. Mound-st.; large sack of Laurelville flour to Mrs. Fannie Parks, 236 Watt-st., and a large can of Rumford Baking Powder to Mrs. E. Goode, 123 Watt-st.

The Herald feels more than satisfied with the results of this Third Annual Cooking School. This has been an offering to the women of Circleville and vicinity, and in addition, Cookery and home making information will play a larger part than ever before in the pages of The Herald.

The women who attended the last session insisted that Mrs. Thurn and able assistant, Mrs. Nye return to Circleville to the next Cooking School and The Herald agrees with them that a better lecturer and assistant would be difficult to find.

At the same time The Herald is grateful for the enthusiasm and cooperation which local merchants have shown throughout the week. In closing the school K. J. Herrmann, manager of The Herald, thanked the women for their daily attendance and their expression of appreciation to Mrs. Thurn who so ably conducted the school.

There was no question of his guilt. It was a question of whether we would extend mercy," Mason said. "We decided to sleep on it before we made the decision whether we should condemn Makley to die. We took one ballot this

"There's the doorbell again"

SUPPOSE daily to your door came the butcher, the grocer, the clothier, the furrier, the furniture man, and every other merchant with whom you deal? What a tedium of doorbell answering that would mean!

It would be even more impractical for you to visit daily all these stores to find out what they have to offer and the price.

And yet you need those merchants' service quite as much as they need your patronage. Contact between seller and consumer is essential in the supplying of human needs. Before a sale can be closed the goods must be offered. Every day, through the advertising columns of this newspaper, the merchants of this city come to your home with their choicest wares. Easily, quickly, you get the news of all that is worth while in the market-places of the world.

They are not strangers at the door, but merchants you know and trust. You are always surer of high quality and fair price when you buy an article advertised by a reputable firm.

Same Old Rock in the Road

Facts About "Rat Bite Fever"

A Strange, Alarming Disease, but It Is Rarely Fatal

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IN MY mail the other day I had a pathetic letter from a frantic mother who anxiously inquired about "rat bite fever". She wanted to know if it is a serious disease. Her young child, aged two and a half years, had recently been bitten by a rat. He was seriously ill in a hospital.

I hastened to assure the worried mother that her child would undoubtedly recover from his ailment. Though rat bite fever is a strange and alarming disease, it is rarely, if ever, fatal.

Dr. Copeland

The disease is caused, of course, by the bite of a rat. Several cases recently reported were traced to the bites of other animals, such as the cat, field mouse, weasel, dog and even the pig. It is a common disease in Japan and China, but is less frequently seen in this country. It is only found where rats are unusually common and the public hygiene is poor.

As a rule, the first sign of the disease does not appear until several weeks after the bite. The original wound heals and after a period it becomes inflamed and swollen. Following this, there is a sudden chill and then a fever. After a few days of fever the temperature falls to normal. After a period of a few days during which the patient has no complaint, the fever returns.

Recurrent Attacks

The fever may disappear again, but soon recurs and such periodical attacks are repeated for several weeks. Of course, there are other signs, such as nausea, irritability, restlessness, and severe pains in the muscles and joints. In adults, the fever may lead to delirium. As a rule, the young victim has serious digestive disturbances which greatly weaken the sufferer and lead to a marked condition of undernourishment.

For many years, little was known concerning this disease. But the cause of the strange malady is now known. It is caused by a microscopic germ called the "spirocheta morsus muris". These germs are found in the blood of the rat and by the bite are transmitted to the victim.

The disease can be prevented by prompt application to the wound of carbolic or nitric acid. Never delay this preventive measure. When the wound has not been cauterized the symptoms of the disease are present. Relief can be obtained by the injection of "salvarsan". Of course, this treatment can only be given under the supervision of a physician.

I believe that too little attention is given to the menace of rats. Besides the economic waste they cause, they are carriers of filth and disease. Complete extermination of these pests leads to improved hygiene and better health for every community.

Roosevelt Sore at the Power Rates Charged to U. S. Post Offices

WASHINGTON — Roosevelt has a lot of reasons to be sore at the power companies, the most recent being discovery of the fact that Uncle Sam's Post Offices have been charged a higher rate than other consumers of the same class. . . . In New York City, for instance, the 44 Post Offices pay a total of $250,000 more annually than if they got the same rate as hotels and other big power users. . . . A cursory examination of rates in other states show the Government also has been socked on the jaw. . . . Oswaldo Aranha, soon to become Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, is the man responsible for Secretary Stimson's nickname, "Wrong Horse Harry". Aranha staged the last revolution, put President Vargas in power just after Stimson declared for the old Brazilian Government. . . . To make room for him, Ambassador Lima e Silva is transferring to Belgium. . . . Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state and son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, can't get over his class-room manner. For many years a professor at Harvard, he addresses congressional committees as if still in the rarified atmosphere of Cambridge.

New Deal Bootleggers

The row between George Peek and Secretary Hull over foreign trade grows more serious. . . . Peek wants to direct the work of negotiating new commercial agreements. Hull is polite but dogged in maintaining that it is the time-honored function of the State Department to negotiate treaties. . . . Repeal has caused some queer paradoxes in the one-time center of prohibition enforcement. Three well-known ex-bootleggers now hold government jobs in the New Deal. . . . Simultaneously, at least two ex-prohibition agents are under investigation for illicit peddling of New Jersey alcohol. . . . The man who really started the drive to collect back income taxes from Andy Mellon is Charles Russell, fighting ex-solicitor of the Federal Power Commission. He brought private action against Mellon in the courts. . . . The man responsible for purging the investigation is Young Henry Morgenthau. For months the Justice Department did nothing. Finally Morgenthau decided to have a showdown. He picked two Democrats — Jimmy Walker and Thomas Siddle — and two Republicans — Mellon and Thomas S. Lanont — for the open round. . . . There will be others.

SELF PRAISE

How we like to pat ourselves on the back
When we but our duty do.
As we ask, "Now what do you think of that?"
With a pride so uncalled for too:
Sure a duty's a bit or a duty's a lot
And we do a good bit if we do it.
But where lives there a man who has stepped to the dot
And duty well done, if he knew it.

With pride so unworthy we boast of our work,
Trying to make men believe
That never a task were we tempted to shirk,
Tho ever we try to deceive;
Sure, we coddle ourselves and we try to explain
To all whom we meet the source of our skill.
But around us is hanging this great ball and chain
Which retards us and threatens to kill.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

EVERYBODY in Maryland knows his Havre de Grace. Most all the natives bet on horses and everybody is interested in races. A young fellow down there that kind of made a living following the horses decided to have his mother come down and see the town and take her to the races, so he wrote her. At the finish of the letter he said, "Bring something to put on the horses." Well, the Mother came and they went out to the races and he noticed she had a parcel she was carrying, and he asked her what it was. She said, "Well, it's an old eiderdown blanket we had there. It's the only thing I could find to put on the horses. I hope it's not too shabby and you won't be ashamed of it."

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

She was too young, too inexperienced, properly to present her case, too afraid that he would force her into a position which she would be unable to defend. She only looked at him from bitter, resentful eyes.

"The difficulty is, Patricia," said Haverholt, and sat down facing her, "the difficulty is that you've been trying to keep me for your own in the hole."

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"Don't play innocent. It's tiresome. You know very well that you would like my unswerving devotion until you decide which way Clark is going to jump. You can't have it, my dear. I'll be no woman's consolation prize."

She was engulfed by a wave of despair; there had been defeat and unhappiness behind her; there was defeat and unhappiness ahead. This was the end of adventure. This was where recklessness led. She had known Haverholt's temperament from the first. She had deliberately chosen association with him. There was no going back now.

If she walked from the house, where could she go, what could she do? She hated Julian Haverholt. The fact remained that she was his product. Without him she was helpless. She had made herself a name, his name. She had friends and associations in the city, his friends and his associations.

Haverholt had promised to lift her to the heights. He had fulfilled his promise. He had made her a success and in so doing he had bound her to him with hoops of steel. She was like a creature, trapped and chained, unable to escape. She had chosen the way of deception and deception had become her master.

"Very well, Julian," said Patricia Haverholt, "we won't discuss it any more or ever again."

She let him forgive her.

The days went by. Patricia adjusted herself. She learned to view Julian Haverholt as philosophically as he viewed himself. She felt again his old charm, his old magnetism. Sometimes she wished that she might fall violently, desperately, uncritically in love with him. She was convinced, as so many other women had been convinced about Julian Haverholt, that if he loved him she could hold him. Anything she thought would be better than the emptiness, the frustration of her present life. She had recovered from her wounded vanity. She could not recover from her wounded heart. She had declared that she wished never to see Clark again. With all her mind she could say that he belonged to Marthe. With all her soul she felt that he belonged to her.

Then, one afternoon a week later, she saw him. She had dropped into a smart restaurant, on her way up-town to meet Julian for an afternoon of cards. She gave her order, looked calmly about, nodding to acquaintances here and there from her vantage point in the center of the lunching crowd. The head waiter had placed her there for two reasons, because she was Julian Haverholt's niece, and because she was the loveliest person in the room.

"Patricia," called a delighted voice from a table behind her.

It was Clark. He was alone too. Patricia nodded acquiescence, experienced a deliciously guilty flutter, as he moved toward her and dropped into the chair opposite. He studied her with open admiration.

"Your trip has done you worlds of good," he murmured contentedly. "You look marvelous. When did you get in—this morning?"

"My trip," echoed Patricia, bewildered.

"Julian said you had run down to Washington to see the cherry blossoms. A lovely sight, aren't they?"

"Very lovely," agreed Patricia dryly, wishing that Julian Haverholt would walk in the door this minute. She investigated the matter further. "When did he let you know I had gone?"

"I telephoned twice; first time, I guess, last Tuesday, after the races. I thought you might like to go dancing with Phil and Marthe and me."

"I would have liked it very much," Patricia remarked, reflecting that she had retired that particular evening at nine-thirty. It was all very well for her to tell Haverholt that she did not want to see Clark again. She neither needed nor desired such enthusiastic cooperation from him. Just wait until she saw him!

Patricia lifted her eyes to Clark. "I should like to go with you some other time," she announced deliberately. "And I expect to stay in town now for months."

"It's a date then. Let's see—" he began and paused, struck. His face lighted with enthusiasm. "Why don't you come down to my place in the country for the week-end?"

"I'd love it," said Patricia promptly.

"I'll drive by Saturday afternoon and pick you up," said Clark, planning with his usual swift enthusiasm. He hesitated, said uncertainly, "How about Julian?"

Patricia had an odd, yet definite feeling that Clark had not intended to include the bridge expert in his party. She said nothing. She could not help Clark over the awkwardness. If he went to the country it was almost certain that Haverholt would go too. Otherwise he was capable of discovering some bridge game in town to which her presence was essential.

"Of course Julian will come too," said Clark, natural now, quite matter of fact.

"I suppose he will. It's difficult for me to get away without him."

"He keeps you working awfully hard, doesn't he?"

Patricia stiffened slightly. She might criticize Haverholt herself. No others, not even Clark, had the right.

"Not at all," she said calmly. "My life is heaven compared to what it was before came to New York. Julian has given me everything, clothes, cars, everything. You see," she ended in a low voice, "I was poor, I had no money at all, none."

"You're a sweet, honest youngster to tell me," he said, touched at her confidence.

To his surprise she looked quite distressed.

"But I'm not," she said quickly, earnestly, "I'm not honest at all. You—you are just mistaken about me."

He laughed at her.

"After all," said Julian Haverholt mildly, "after all you did tell me that you didn't want to see Clark Tracy again. I took you at your word. I was only helping you along, or so I thought. You did say that, didn't you?"

"Yes, I did," Patricia conceded in exasperation. "Sometimes," she continued irritably, "I believe you would try to convince me that black is white. You know you are wrong; you know you shouldn't have told him I was out of town; you just won't admit it." She looked at him angrily, said, "I have a right to change my own mind, haven't I?"

"A perfect right," he agreed equably. "I gather then that you have. You plan to go to the house party?"

"I most certainly do."

"It's your funeral, my dear," he conceded ironically, "I'll gladly go along and assist with the obsequies. But, I do wish I could pound sense into your head. You are making a mistake, a bad one."

"Thank you for your solicitude," said Patricia evenly, "I'll take care of my own mistakes and my own phone calls, hereafter—if you please."

He shrugged. They were in the lobby of the Cavender Club. Two impatient bridge players were waiting for their upstairs. The sunshine, spring-like day had emptied the lobby. However, as they strolled up the stairs and toward the card rooms they heard the familiar babble of bias, the scrape of chairs, the fall of cards. Bridge was proceeding as usual.

"Have you and Clark quarreled?" asked Patricia, pausing in the hall way, looking sharply at Julian.

"Not that I know of. Why? What did he say?"

"Nothing particularly, it was just an impression I had. You can't think of anything then?"

"I can think of a thousand things," said Julian promptly. "Clark doesn't really approve of me, never has. I probably did something or said something that jarred on his nice sensibilities. Clark is very proper, an eminently straight-laced young man. Haven't you made that discovery yet?"

"He said I was awfully homesick," admitted Patricia in a shamefaced voice. "He said that was what I liked about me."

"You're getting in deep, Miss Haverholt," said Julian and cocked a knowing, triumphant eyebrow. "You'll get in deeper, see if you don't."

They went inside to play bridge.

On Saturday morning Patricia dressed for the houseparty. After endless consultation between herself and Annie, the two of them packed a smart patent leather bag with the smartest, most becoming clothes in all New York—or so Patricia thought. Anyhow, she need not worry about clothes. She was down to wait.

It had been decided that Clark was to drive her to Long Island. Julian was to make the trip that night by train. He had deliberately absented himself from the house this morning. The girl rejoiced in his absence. She thought rebelliously that it was none of his business if she chose to see Clark Tracy once in a while. She was quite able to take care of herself.

IN MEMORIAM

Ruth Beckwith taught commercial subjects at Franklin Junior High from September, 1923 to the beginning of this semester. She was a woman of unusual personal charm and beauty, and possessed the saving grace also of a keen sense of humor, which we all need at times.

She liked boys and girls and was interested in helping them and seeing them develop from day to day. They, in turn, loved and admired her. Always found her fair and ready to listen to them.

We, her fellow workers, know her as a brilliant woman and a fine teacher and so modest that many never knew of her unusual attainments. We loved her and we shall miss her more than we can say.

Will War? Come!

This time when Louis Barthou, member of the French academy, rich in honors, took an office that could mean little addition to these riches but vast addition to his burdens he read, not in Le Temps, but in a German encyclopedia that "M. Barthou by his passage of the three year military service law was one of those chiefly responsible for bringing on the war."

"That is false," exclaimed the minister as he sat in the tapestried workroom of the Quai d'Orsay where his predecessors from Talleyrand to Briand have pondered the problem of the last and the next war. "The three year military law was not a provocation to war more than our present preparations to defend ourselves are provocation to war. It was a simple measure of self-defense."

"We had learned that the Germans were vastly increasing their armaments. There was nothing left for us to do but reply by increasing ours. I have nothing to be ashamed of for my part in improving the ability of my country to defend itself when the events that afterwards transpired showed how desperately necessary the measures of defense were."

PROUD OF PART

"On the contrary, I am proud of having participated in promoting a law which perhaps in the last analysis saved France from defeat."

He ruffled his pugnacious beard and gazed clear-eyed through his rimless spectacles. M. Le President Barthou is probably the smallest in stature of the six former premiers of France in Gaston Doumergue's all-star cast, but he is certainly not the least fiery.

"But M. Le President, would it not have been better to have passed the law earlier, say in 1912?"

"Ah no, August 1913 was when the law was passed and that was the earliest it could have been passed. In a democratic country like France, run by its parliament, the people have to be convinced of the necessity of such a measure before they will accept it. The people would not have accepted it earlier. They would have turned out any government that tried."

The minister did not say so, but the fact is that it is in precisely this respect that many persons of authority in France see the greatest parallel with the situation in 1913-14. French soldiers today serve one year. The French consider it beyond dispute that the Germans are "increasing their armaments." But French public opinion is as little prepared today for an extension even to eighteen months of the period of army service as French public opinion in 1912 would have been prepared for the three year bill.

NEVER SAW DILLINGER

Mrs. Elaine Dent Burton, of Chicago, who was mentioned in investigation of John Dillinger's escape from Lake County jail, Crown Point, Ind. She denied she was the "mystery woman" who visited the desperado a few days before he made his sensational escape.

period is yet necessary. We are prepared. We do not want war. If it comes, we are prepared."

But in another respect M. Barthou considers the similarities between 1914 and 1934 to be most menacing. "Some time last year," he said, removing his glasses and putting both elbows on the desk, "I wrote a review of the European situation for a French political weekly. In it I set forth the positive opinion that there would be no war of any rate in the year 1934. I am compelled to say I can no longer express the view I expressed in that article."

"Why? What is the reason? In one word, Austria. There is the most striking analogy between the position of Austria in 1934 and the position of Serbia in 1914. Serbia at that time was menaced by the Austro-Hungarian empire. Russia insisted that the independence of Serbia should not be violated. Out of that conflict sprang the great war. Today Austria is menaced in its independence by Germany. On the other side stand the great powers and the little entente, insisting on the maintenance of the independence of Austria. The parallel between Austria and Serbia is disturbing, one might say alarming. At any rate it makes it impossible to predict positively that there will be no war even in this year 1934."

REFERENCES TO VOTE

"But," he exclaimed and waved his eye-glasses to warn against premature conclusions. "Nevertheless I am encouraged by one factor to believe, to cherish the hope that there will be no war also in 1934. I refer to the latest diplomatic note sent the German government in respect to the Austrian question from the governments of Great Britain, Italy and France."

"It was a short note. It had about two sentences. But in my opinion it was the most important diplomatic event in years."

For these three powers on a matter of European importance for the peace of Europe. "You remember that each of these three powers had previously made separately individual representations to the German government stating their interest in the maintenance of Austrian independence. But this time they acted together. It is true that I have observed no positive sign from Berlin that the attitude of the German government has changed toward Austria as a consequence of this joint action. But just the same I am strongly inclined to believe that this action has made any adventurous move on the part of Germany improbable."

HITLER FOR PEACE

Now the little minister straightened up in his chair and delivered the most significant remark: "If there is one man in the world who wants peace today, it is Hitler. What his position may be in the future, when Germany's rearmament has changed the feelings of his own people, what may be the consequences of internal developments within Germany, no man can say. But today I think we have to take the word of Hitler as true: That he does not want war."

"We who have lived through the war know too much of what it means. It is not reasonable that persons who have had that experience would wish it to be repeated."

"And the Saar, M. Le President? Would it be the Saar question were to be settled by agreement between France and Germany?"

"There," he exclaimed. "I agree about the explosive possibilities. Developments are possible there which could violate any prediction on the probability of peace being kept. But the position of France is plain. We have repeated it again and again. The Saar is not a Franco-German question. It is a question for all the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles. The administration of the Saar, the arrangement of the plebiscite is a matter for the league and only for the league. France has no choice but to leave the Saar question to be settled as the treaty provides."

"And the Hapsburgs, M. Le President? Would France consent to a restoration of the Hapsburgs in Austria?"

"The French position," replied the minister cautiously, "is that we are simply interested in maintaining the independence of Austria. But we have our treaties with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, their opposition to the restoration of the Hapsburgs is very strong. We have to take them into consideration."

Summed up, the views of the French minister of foreign affairs, on the basis of his observations today interpreted through the capriciousness of thirty years of European politics are:

1. War is not probable, but possible, even in 1934.

Kindness

(An Editorial)

Kindness can be manifested in many different ways, according to the individual.

When we meet a friend who is cheerful and blue, let us give him a pat on the back and help him see the bright side of life. When we feel that we can't go on living in this old world let us not be grouchy and have ill feelings toward others because it is as the saying goes, "Every cloud has a silver lining."

When we fail in our work at school we should not have unkind feelings for the teachers but take our misfortune as a grown-up should.

A little more determination upon our part to succeed and a little more kindness to others will do wonders in making our lives more worth while. Many illustrations of this fact may be found by observing our own school.

The universal result of kindness is love and happiness.

student opinion

Do you think speakers and entertainers in our chapel programs are treated with due respect?

Walter Eitel:

I do not think that those who have given chapel programs have been given that best of attention or respect.

There are some students who are like certain types of talks and entertainments. It would seem to me that they would be polite and the ones that are interested in them to hear. A group of students should be in high school, should be self-disciplined enough to be courteous even though they are not interested.

Speakers never talk so that it is impossible to keep a short time, at least.

As a student of Circleville high school I think that by being appreciative and attentive to the student body of C. H. S. it improves its behavior 100 per cent.

A person who is willing to give an audience should merit an average amount of respect. We must remember that entertainers are putting forth their best effort to please.

It seems that almost every student who is held there is a feeling of being held there. This feeling in due time makes the students nervous and rude to the speakers or entertainers who are there to do their best before an audience.

George Gilmore:

I do. I base my opinion on the following statement made by a man who spoke at C. H. S. "It is one of the most attentive audiences I ever spoke to."

The attention of Circleville's student body at assemblies is as good as can be expected.

SCHOLARSHIP TESTS GIVEN MARCH 24

Next Saturday, March 24, the scholarship tests for high school students who are in the upper third of their class will be held at the Circleville high school.

Examinations are to be given in mathematics, science, English, history, and the social sciences.

Students receiving scores in the upper five per cent of the state will have their tuition paid to any college or university in Ohio.

Ten Circleville high school seniors will take the test.

SECOND GROUP OF E. M. S. MEETS

The second group of the E. M. S. met Monday night, March 2, at Service Liston's home. The assisting hostesses were Mary Curtin, Dorothy Beatty, and Eleanor Brown.

This group meets once every three weeks.

Plans are under way for the joint meeting of the E. M. S. and the famous. She has had eight presidents of the United States, speakers of our national representatives, three Justices of the Supreme Court, two Secretaries of State, Secretaries of the Treasury, Secretaries of War, three Secretaries of the Interior, four Attorneys General, three Postmasters and many other persons among Americans.

CLASSIC DRAMAS TO BE PRESENTED HERE MARCH 23

Shakespearean Players Present "Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth" Friday.

The C. H. S. auditorium will be a mecca for all lovers of classic drama next Friday, March 23, when the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce Company will make their appearance here. This will be their second appearance here in six years.

These Robert B. Mantell-coached players will present "The Merchant of Venice" and "Macbeth" at 2:30 p. m. and 8:00 p. m., respectively. There are nine in the troupe.

Tickets for the two performances went on sale Friday at the Soda Grill, The Temple Drug Store, and at the high school.

The day before their scheduled presentations at C. H. S., the Shakespearean players will appear in Lancaster. They have been touring Michigan towns and cities during the past week.

Surrounding communities are completing their plans to attend the plays.

Students Assist Classic Players

Several local young people will assist in the production of "The Merchant of Venice" and "Macbeth" to be given by James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their company at the High School Auditorium on March 23. It is the custom of the company to invite a limited number of students from the dramatic and English classes to appear with them in certain scenes requiring group acting. These students will wear the period costumes of the time.

Miss Watson, teacher of English, and Principal E. I. Gephart have selected the following students because of their particular fitness and experience: Charlotte Moore, Mary Curtin, Mary May, William Ashbrook, Denver Greenleaf, and Robert Price.

In addition to those taking parts in the cast, several have been assigned to help as technical and business staffs. Betty Brown and Carl Boggs have been placed in charge of ticket sales and the advertising is being handled by James Packard and Robert Ward.

The four boys assigned to the technical staff are Thomas Harman, Robert Teal, Paul Weaver and Richard Harnish.

BUCKEYE LEAGUE MEETS TODAY

Today Principal Gephart, Coach Herberholz, and Mr. Cress attended the semi-annual meeting of The Central Buckeye League athletic association in Columbus.

The meeting was for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Present officers are Mr. Gephart, president; and Mr. Dwight Blauser, Grandview, secretary and treasurer.

Next year's basketball schedule will be made and the program of minor spring sports will be mapped out.

TRACK PRACTICE STARTS MONDAY

Again spikes will cut the grass from the cinder path and track season will begin.

According to Coach Herberholz practice will begin on Monday if the weather is suitable. Although many track men are expected to answer the Coach's call, few field event participants are expected.

Several new men are expected to help the C. H. S. track team on its way.

TEACHERS' BANQUET TO BE HELD MARCH 22

Teachers of Circleville Public schools will hold a banquet and "get-together" at the American Hotel Coffee Shoppe Thursday, March 22.

As their guests they have invited the Board of Education and the public officials more directly connected with the schools of the city.

The party will begin at 7 p. m.

All the members of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Home Economics classes visited Mrs. Thurn's cooking school on Wednesday afternoon this week.

The third in a series of devotional services during Lent will be conducted by Rev. E. S. Toennies, at 10:50, Monday morning.

Dr. Howard Jones Speaker at Women's Social Club Meeting

The Presbyterian Women's Social club held its March meeting Friday evening in the social room of the church and at the same time entertained the Men's social club at a covered-dish dinner.

Following the dinner, the entire group sang several folk songs accompanied by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the piano.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges, president of the Women's club, charmingly introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. Howard Jones, Circleville's noted arthologist.

In his opening remarks Dr. Jones paid a beautiful tribute to the five Presbyterian women, who gave to the world their talent, time and energy in producing the marvelous paintings and manuscripts composing the only work of its kind in the world today on the nests and eggs of our birds.

"Food for the mind, from the heart" Dr. Jones stated was their motive for devoting their time to the great work, the origin of which was inspired by his sister, Genevieve E. Jones, who painted six pictures before her death. Her companion and friend, Miss Eliza Shultz, decided to go on with the work and completed ten more illustrations after which she left this vicinity, and his mother, Mrs. Virginia Jones decided to carry on the work. For many years Mrs. Jones painted, and sketched and so tedious was the work that she lost her eyesight in her declining years.

In the coloring of plates she was assisted by Miss Kate Gephart and Miss Nellie Jacobs, who painted all the bird eggs in their exquisite shades.

Dr. Jones displayed several of the original bird's nests from which the drawings were made and told how they were sketched on paper then on a lithograph stone, and sent to Cincinnati for the printers.

He showed by comparison, the superlative work in his possession, with that of Audubon, who sent his to England to be engraved and colored by Robert Haviland. Dr. Jones showed how utterly impossible it would be for photography to show the rare beauty and likeness of the original birds and nests, due to the fact that lights and shadows seen in photography would mar its true beauty. None of these conditions are evident in the hand paintings in the Jones collection.

All the plates are on Whatman paper, handmade, also paint and brushes being imported from England.

Many of the famous libraries of the world have copies of the original book which is the possession of Dr. Jones. The Circleville library contains one uncolored copy, a likeness of which, sold recently in Ohio, bringing the largest selling price of any book every made in Ohio.

These five women left a masterpiece that shall bring beauty and joy to countless souls down through the ages. The Presbyterian church of which they were members, is justly proud of their noble lives and memorable achievements.

They have filled a place in the world that should make every citizen of Circleville grateful that they once lived among us and that they made so great a contribution to mankind.

Dr. Jones in closing conducted an open forum, in regard to the exhibit he had and the talk that he had given.

Dr. Jones is the only person living who knows all the facts concerning this work of art. At the close of his lecture, a social hour ensued.

Mrs. Ward Robinson was chairman of the hostess committee and Mrs. Charles Smith was chairman of the program committee.

S. S. CLASS ENJOYS PARTY AT KERN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kern, Jackson-twp., extended the hospitality of their home to members of the Young People's class of the Christ Lutheran church, of which Mr. Kern is teacher, Friday evening, when the losing team of a recent membership contest entertained the winners with a party.

Thirty four enjoyed the delightful evening during which a short program was presented under the chairmanship of Miss Bertha Krimmel, captain of the winning team of the contest.

Mrs. Luther List gave a reading, "Learn to Smile," and two papers, "The Good of the Contest" and "The Bad of the Contest," were read by Miss Evelyn Hill and Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel, respectively.

"His Old Father Was Satisfied" was a reading by Van Meter Hulise and a newspaper by an unknown editor which contained jokes on members of the class was read by Miss Bertha Krimmel.

Games were enjoyed during the remainder of the evening and a delicious lunch in keeping with St. Patrick's Day was served by the hosts and their assistants.
